PUT CHECK ON KAISER WILHELM

GIANT NORTH DAKOTA NOW IN THE WATER

LAUNCHED WITHOUT ACCIDENT AT QUINCY. GIRL NAMES SEA MONSTER.

With thousands lining both banks of the Monatiquot and occupying every point of vantage and roaring their cheers, and with fifty and more yachts shrieking their welcome, the North Dakota, the largest, fleetest, most terrible battleship ever built, slipped off the ways at the Fore River shipyards, Quincy, at 12:33 to-day.

On the platform built for the official party were representatives of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, the government of the United States and Governor John Burke and a party of forty-five of North Dakota's leading citizens representing their State.

Miss Mary Benton, daughter of Colonel John K. Benton of Fargo, N. D., christened the battleship. She used a bottle of wine from her own State, although North Dakota nowadays is in the prohibition column. Miss Benton wore a champagne colored suit of satin broadcloth with lace and gold trimmings, lace bodice and picture hat in harmony.

Her chaperon, Miss Alice Nelson Page, of Grand Forks, N. D., wore a light gray broadcloth tailor made suit, with picture hat, and Mrs. Burke, the Governor's wife, a blue broadcloth gown with toque to match and mink furs.

MacShane Sets Her Going.

For more than an hour before the great ship began to move there was a perfect din of hammering and pounding as hundreds of workmen moved all the superfluous blocks and prepared the North Dakota for her first trip. At 12:33 p. m. the signal was sent from the platform down to John MacShane, to whom the honor of "sawing the plank" which released the ship was awarded. John has launched ships for fifty years, everything from a two-master to the proud old record-breaking clippers, and to conclude his busy service with this honor filled him with joy.

Once the signal was given everybody waited breathless, and the silence was impressive.

"Swish, swish, swish!" Down below those on the launching stand could hear old John's saw. Then there was the final snap as the plank parted and the great mass began to move. Its 9,000 tons of dead weight—the largest ever moved off a launching ways—moved slowly, but with mighty momentum, slowly gaining. Miss Benton drew back the bottle suspended from the bows with a silken ribbon, and, raising it well above her head, sent it crashing against the ship's bows, where it broke into a jewel-like spray of mingled wine and glass.

"I christen thee North Dakota and God be with you," cried Miss Benton. Her voice was almost inaudible in the roar of cheers. Those about her congratulated her on the success of her effort. To have made a miss would have been little short of disastrous, since the sailor boys who will man the great ship would never overcome the fear of some calamity which they associate with failure of this ceremony.

Banquet Follows.

As the ship reached the water several final restraining cables parted with roars like small field guns. There was a mighty wave as the 9,000 tons of displacement fought for room, and many of the little craft were tossed about like chips. But in a few minutes all had "found" themselves and they circled cockily around their new sovereign.

Following the launching the Fore River officials entertained the Dakotans and a large party of invited guests at a luncheon in the mold room of the shipyards, where there were toasts and speeches and general felicitations on the success of the great ship.

H. E. Fricke, representing the Fore River yards, met the North Dakota party at the North station and escorted them to the Hotel Vendome, Back Bay, where they were his breakfast guests. With him to receive the men and women who came out of the West to attend the ceremony were Brigadier-General William B. Emery, Major Talbot Aldrich and Major Philip S. Sears, representing Governor Guild and of his staff. They were in full uniform. On Governor Burke's staff were Colonel Brookhoff, Colonel W. H. Makee and others. They were not in uniform when they arrived, but at the launching wore full regimentals.

In the Governor's Party.

The other members of the Governor's party were: Governor John Burke and wife, Miss Helen Steele, John D. Burton, Miss Mary L. Burton, George E. Davis and wife, Mrs. A. N. Page, Miss Mabel Hubbard, Alex Currie, Mrs. George Parker, L. Freeman, J. N. Worst and wife, L. Hanna and wife, C. W. Buttz, E. F. Gilbert and wife, Miss Edyth M. Jenks, F. O. Hellstrom and wife, W. D. McClintock, Miss McClintock, Lee Coaell, George L. Boger and wife, A. S. Gibbens and wife, P. W. Cole and wife, Colonel W. H. Makee and wife, E. B. Andrews, Don Dempsey, H. J. Monley, W. H. Grand, J. E. McKonrie, James Turner, A. S. Barrows, Colonel Brookhoff, William Merrifield, president of the University of North Dakota, and J. F. T. O'Connor.

Speed Records Broken.

The North Dakota in leaving her ways is the greatest dead weight ever moved in such a manner—more than 9,000 tons. The ship is technically speaking more than 50 per cent. completed and in her construction all records have been broken for

WOMAN TELLS OF THREATS IN GUNNESS CASE

By Boston American Leased Wire.

LAPORTE, Ind., Nov. 10.—The defence in the case of Ray Lamphere, on trial here for the murder of Mrs. Belle Gunness and her three children, was thrown into consternation to-day when it was learned that Nina Billings, the mysterious witness whose name has only been brought into the case this week, would testify to a seriously incriminating conversation with Lamphere.

Lamphere is declared to have told Miss Billings that he had Mrs. Gunness "scared to death" of him because he knew all her secrets and could make her give him money any time he asked for it. This testimony will be of the utmost importance as corroborating the sworn statement of Bessie Wallace, another woman witness from Wallace City.

Within the first thirty minutes of to-day's court session three men acceptable in every other way to serve as jurors on the case have been excused because they absolutely believed Mrs. Gunness living.

EXTRADITED FOR ROBBERY

Extradition papers to-day were granted against Alex. Duff and Sidney Duff, aged eighteen and twenty-one respectively, charged by the police of Norwood, O., with having robbed the Adams Express Company at that town of $200. They were sent back to Ohio to stand trial for their alleged crime.

ELECTRICITY IN FINAL ATTEMPT TO WAKE GIRL

LOWELL, Nov. 10.—Electricity is to be used this afternoon in an heroic attempt to rouse Lowell's sleeping girl, Miss Luciana Piette, from the stupor into which she sank ten days ago. The physicians who are to make the attempt are hoping that the mother, Mrs. Maxime Piette, will not try to interfere with them.

The methods recommended by Charcot, Dieulafoy and Ballet will probably be used. The girl's head will be made warm and her feet cold. Then electrodes will be placed at the opposite ends of the spine and a gentle current of galvanic electricity applied.

To-day the sleeping girl shows no change whatever in her condition. She has lost flesh at the rate which might be expected by her sleep, which is as profound as ever. The house, No. 12 Ward street, is still visited by scores daily and professional interest quickens as the girl's sleep grows longer.

Many interesting letters teeming with suggestions are being received by Mrs. Piette. Some claim that the stupors of which the present is the sixth the girl has ever had, are caused by obsession, or a spirit taking possession of her mind and body. Others insist that she has unconsciously put herself to sleep through auto-suggestion.

George W. Goodman of No. 126 Indiana avenue, Providence, R. I., writes: "In my opinion the trance is caused by the presence of another soul."

STUDIED GOTHAM TRAFFIC SYSTEM

Street Commissioner Gallivan and Secretary John O'Callaghan of the board returned to-day from a tour of inspection and investigation of traffic conditions in New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore, undertaken for the purpose of devising the best method for the relief of congestion of traffic in the business sections of the city.

KAISER FLIES OVER AN HOUR; LANDS SAFELY

FREDERICHSHAFEN, Nov. 10.—Despite the protests of his advisers, Emperor William to-day accompanied Count Zeppelin in the reconstructed balloon, the Zeppelin. A strong northwest wind was blowing at 2 o'clock p. m. and the ascension was delayed for a few minutes hoping the wind would die down, but at 2:15, Emperor William, who was in fine spirits, gave the signal, and a few moments later the giant gas bag rose majestically and started on its journey over Lake Constance.

Nearly twenty thousand persons witnessed the ascension, and reports from Lake Constance say that fully two hundred thousand are gathered at different points along the shore of the lake.

Half the prominent officials in Germany had requested permission to accompany His Majesty, but only four were taken.

After manoeuvring for one hour and eighteen minutes over Lake Constance the Zeppelin landed safely. The Emperor expressed his delight at his unique experiences.

POLICE FIND MISSING BABY IN KIND HOME

Little Etta Cohen, four years old, but not looking a day more than two, is at home again with her mother. The little one was returned to her parents this afternoon by the police of Station 4.

Etta disappeared from the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cohen, No. 35 Seneca street, yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Moran of No. 78 Oak street saw the little one toddling along the street in front of her house sometime near 5 o'clock last evening.

The kind-hearted woman took the child into her own home and made the little wanderer comfortable for the night. This morning she notified Policeman Sweeney and he came to her house and knew little Etta at once from the descriptions sent out. He took her to the station house and the parents were notified.

Julia Cohen, thirteen, rushed to the station and as soon as the sister met they rushed into each others arms, and then Julia bore little Etta home in triumph.

O'CONNELL BUT 4 VOTES IN THE LEAD

SEVEN PRECINCTS YET TO BE COUNTED IN CONGRESSIONAL CONTEST.

With seven precincts yet to hear from, Congressman Joseph F. O'Connell's lead in the Tenth district is but four votes over J. Mitchel Galvin, Republican.

When the Electoral Commissioners recounted the votes in Precinct 5, Ward 17, Galvin's vote was increased by two. Precinct 6 made no change. In Precinct 7 of the same ward Galvin made a gain of three votes. In Precincts 5, 6 and 7 of Ward 24 the votes were not changed.

Up to noon four precincts had been recounted in each of Wards 17 and 24, leaving but thirteen precincts to complete the Boston count.

From his originally returned majority of 41 O'Connell's lead was decreased yesterday to 20, and to-day precinct after precinct showed O'Connell losses.

They were small losses, but vital. There was a steady gain for Galvin as the recount progressed.

In Ward 17, of the four precincts first counted, three showed Galvin gains. In Precinct 1 he gained two, in Precinct 2 there was no change, in Precinct 3 he gained one and in Precinct 4 his gain was two.

In four precincts of Ward 24 Galvin made a net gain of six. There were no changes in Precincts 1 and 4, but in Precinct 2 Galvin gained five and in Precinct 3 he gained one.

With the dwindling vote of O'Connell comes from the Congressman's supporters the claim that hundreds of votes in Quincy will be questioned in case the recount should disclose Galvin a winner.

In Quincy the ballot boxes failed to cancel all the ballots. The O'Connell supporters claim that no ballot can be legally counted unless it is properly cancelled in the ballot box. In Quincy some 700 ballots, the great majority of them Galvin ballots, went through the ballot boxes uncancelled, through the failure of the ballot-box mechanism to work. The ballots were counted as marked, but objection will be made by the friends of O'Connell in case the Boston recount wipes out the majority first returned.

MOTHER AND HER BABIES DISAPPEAR

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Mrs. Annie O'Neill, who is connected with a Harlem department store, has asked the police here to search for her sister-in-law, Mrs. Florence M. Goldey of Providence, R. I., who has been missing from home with her two children since October 24.

The husband and father is almost crazed with grief. He owned a stationery and news store at No. 421 Pine street, Providence. When, after a few days of search, his funds were exhausted he sold his business and devoted all of the money to hiring private detectives and employing other agencies to aid him in his hunt for his wife and children.

Neither the husband nor relatives of Mrs. Goldey have any theory as to the possible cause of her disappearance. On the afternoon of October 24 she took the two children out to see a moving picture show, and since then not the slightest trace of them has been found. She was born in Bristol, Ct., and has many relatives in that vicinity, but none of them have seen or heard of her.

Mrs. Goldey is described as a pretty brunette of medium height and figure. The two children—Hope, a girl, aged six, and a boy, Herbert, less than three—are decided blondes. Mrs. Goldey is twenty-three and eloped with young Goldey seven years ago.

OWL FORCES COURT TO CLOSE

A large owl, which alighted on one of the big elms back of the Cambridge court house, was the cause of breaking up Judge Bond's session of the Superior Civil Court. While the case of J. Western Allen, executor, against the West Newton Savings Bank, in an action to recover $2,000, was being tried, there came a piercing outcry from a hundred children, who had seen the owl. The yelling of the children became so loud and persistent that in Judge Bond's court it was impossible to hear the witness for the plaintiff. Finally Judge Bond said that the case would be put over.

SOUTH BOSTON GIRL IS FINED FOR R. I. THEFT

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 10.—Albert W. Hickley of Woods Hole, and Blanche Carr of E street, South Boston, were each fined on charges of larceny in the Sixth District Court to-day. Mrs. Eliza Goff, who runs a boarding-house in George street, charged that a gold watch and ring had been stolen from her house, while another boarding-house keeper of Orms street brought a like charge.

Hinckley was fined $25 and costs on both charges while Blanche Carr was fined $30 and costs.

Attorney Allen made strong plea for mercy for his client. Hinckley pleaded guilty and the attorney told the Court that he was about to take out a captain's license and would make $100 a month.

The police officials told the Court that Hinckley had a wife in New Bedford and that she was here yesterday and said her husband had failed to provide for her or their child. She said that he had made $100 a month and gave her but $1.

'PUT CURB ON KAISER' IS CRY IN REICHSTAG

Special Cable to Boston American.

BERLIN, Nov. 10.—When the German Reichstag convened to-day there was intense excitement prevalent over the proposed interpolation of Count Von Buelow, the German minister, and the debate over the recent interview of Emperor William which has created a continental furore. Men fought at the entrance of the assembly. Rioting was imminent before the hall.

Count Von Buelow and the other ministers of the cabinet were ushered to their seats with pomp and ceremony.

Six interrogations were addressed to the Premier by the following party representatives: Imperialists, Conservatives, Nationals, Liberals, Clericals and the United Liberals.

Herr Wasserman began the debate for the National Liberals. He made a savage onslaught on the Kaiser's tendency to absolutism.

"Personal Absolutism."

"We must state plainly and publicly to the world that we are not afraid of the yellow peril or other perils," Wasserman said. "But the danger from international policy, based on the Emperor's sudden moods, is incalculable.

"Germany's fate must no longer depend upon one man's impulsive temperament. The idea of personal absolutism is undermining the foundation of our national security."

Wasserman recited a long list of the Emperor's indiscreet utterances, telegrams and acts, and declared that all had been injurious to Germany, had complicated the country's foreign relations and excited general suspicion of Germany's policies in the last twenty years.

Would Limit His Power.

Wasserman said in conclusion: "His last indiscretion has aroused the German nation until it is boiling with indignation. This personal regime must cease. Absolutism must be replaced by the constitutional methods prevailing in other civilized countries."

Wasserman demanded that Von Buelow give the Reichstag the definite guarantee that the Emperor will henceforth remain more in the background, and that the chancellor would introduce a legislative bill limiting the Emperor's personal power.

The whole Reichstag applauded Wasserman's arraignment of the Kaiser.

Herr Weimer spoke for the three Liberal groups. He sharply criticised the "personal rule" of the Emperor, and said that the "Kaiser must learn from the Reichstag that the whole nation is discontented.

"Germany's prestige and reputation is endangered," Weimer said. The speaker criticised the Emperor for going up in an airship at a time when the Legislature was debating his conduct.

STANDARD OIL WINS IN APPEAL ON BIG FINE

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—The Standard Oil company won a victory to-day in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in the fight on Judge Landis's decision fining the Oil Trust $29,240,000.

In the decision handed down to-day by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, Judges Grosscup, Baker and Seaman sitting, upheld the decision of Judge Grosscup in which the decison of Judge Landis was reversed.

As the case now stands the decision of the Court of Appeals nullifies the decision of Judge Landis and the work of the district attorney unless an appeal to the United States Court be taken on a writ of certiorari.

It is almost certain that an appeal will be taken. Immediately after the decision District Attorney Sims asked for a stay in the issuance of the mandate and wired Attorney General Bonaparte. Future action will depend upon instructions from Washington.

The case now, however, is up to the Attorney-General and other officials in Washington.

The decision handed down to-day was comparatively brief. Besides denying the petition for a rehearing, thus confirming Judge Grosscup's previous ruling reversing Judge Landis, the Court of Appeals took occasion to criticise sharply the government counsel for alleged misconstruction of the court's previous ruling. The language of this criticism follows:

"Courts have the right to expect that counsel accustomed to practice in the courts of review, not only know the meaning of legal terms constantly in use, in discussion and opinions of these courts, but will not misuse such terms to spread misinformation respecting a judgment which, in the nature of the case, is bound to attract wide public attention."

TELLS OF MRS. PEPPER'S CALL TO SPIRITS

Daughter of Vanderbilt Describes Seances at Which Medium Wore Black.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Miss Minerva Vanderbilt, who has brought suit to have her aged and millionaire father, Edward Ward Vanderbilt, declared insane because he married and was completely dominated by Mrs. Mary Scannell Pepper Vanderbilt, the spiritualistic medium, was on the witness stand in the proceedings in the Appellate Division Chambers, Brooklyn, to-day, and gave a graphic description of the seances Mrs. Pepper conducted.

Mrs. Vanderbilt told of the summoning by Mrs. Pepper of the the spirits "Little Bright Eyes," and "Fidelis," during the spiritualistic meetings in the Masonic Temple, Madison street and Bedford avenue, Brooklyn, and of the alleged transparently fraudulent methods of the so-called spiritualistic "bishop," in convincing her father that his first wife spoke to him through "Fidelis."

Was Dressed in Black.

"Mrs. Pepper," said Miss Vanderbilt, "attended these seances gowned in a black robe. She stood on an elevated platform in the front of the great square room behind a tall desk. It was on this desk that the articles of those at the meeting which were supposed to be the means of calling the spirits of departed ones were deposited.

"The first of these seances that I went to was in April, 1904. My father took me. When we entered the hall Mrs. Pepper was not yet there. As she came in from a door behind the platform everybody in the hall rose to his feet and began to sing. This singing continued until Mrs. Pepper had taken her seat.

"Bright Eyes" Calls.

Then Mrs. Pepper asked everyone who wanted to communicate with the spirit of some departed one to place something on her desk. Some put handkerchiefs there, some pieces of ribbon and other similar things. Then there was some more singing during which Mrs. Pepper would take up a handkerchief or a piece of ribbon and place it to her mouth or to her eyes.

"When the singing was over, Mrs. Pepper picked up some bit of the heap that was before her on the desk and closed her eyes. Then in a strained voice, she declared that 'Little Bright Eyes,' the spirit, was calling.

"When no one among those in front of her responded she went into a rage.

"This kind of thing went on for some little time, and then toward the end of the session Mrs. Pepper announced that 'Fidelis' was calling.

"'Fidelis is calling "Birdie,"' Mrs. Pepper said.

"My father turned to me at this and said that 'Birdie' meant me. I told him that it did not mean me. I did not know anything about Birdie. But he insisted that Birdie meant me."

ONE DEAD, MANY HURT; TWO WRECKS IN FOG

EXTREME CAUTION PREVENTS OTHER COLLISIONS ON RAIL; SHIPPING DELAYED.

Two train wrecks, carrying a toll of death and injuries due to the fog, were reported in the immediate vicinity of Boston to-day. One in Cambridge resulted in one death and two injured, one of the latter probably fatally.

From Peabody came the report of a collision between a carload of passengers on the Lynn trolley line and a flat car loaded with ties. Two were seriously injured in this collision and several others suffered minor injuries.

Trains generally for twenty-five miles from Boston were delayed from ten minutes to an hour, and several collisions on the steam roads were narrowly averted. Only the most extreme caution, the posting of signal men at close intervals and the like, made it possible to move the commuters and regular passenger trains into Boston at all.

The old weather sharps on the water front said no fog of such density had blanketed Boston Harbor and the land around about for many years. It was literally opaque. In Atlantic avenue one could not see the building line on either side from the middle of that thoroughfare.

2 SERIOUSLY HURT IN PEABODY WRECK

PEABODY, Nov. 10.—Two men were badly hurt and several others were injured during a collision in the heavy fog when two electric cars on the Boston and Northern crashed to-day at Ayer and Washington streets.

The badly injured are:

James Wetherbee of No. 12 Miller place, Lynn, motorman of the passenger car; cut about the head, badly shaken up, internal injury feared.

Leo B. Hogan of Lynn, metal worker; leg broken and bruised.

Several of the sixteen workingmen who were riding in the passenger car were cut or bruised. They live in Lynn or Lynnfield and were on the way to work in Peabody. The seriously injured men were taken to the office of Dr. John E. Hickey on Main street, Peabody, and sent home after being treated.

The collision was between the passenger car, which was bound from Lynn to Peabody, and a flat freight car loaded with cross ties, bound from Wakefield to Peabody. Both were going at a fair rate of speed when the crash came. The freight car was a special one and the crew of the passenger coach thought they had a clear track. But the other had the right of way.

It is said that Motorman Wetherbee ran by a red light and should have stopped. The fog was so dense that neither motorman could see any distance ahead.

Conductor William H. Allen of No. 19 Pendexter street, Lynn, in charge of the passenger car, escaped with a shaking up. Motorman John Cotter of Wakefield had a chance to jump from the freight in time to escape injury and Thomas Glynn of the same town, in charge of that car, is also unharmed.

Hogan was riding with Wetherbee in the passenger car vestibule, which was badly smashed by the impact, and neither had a chance to jump in time. In fact, as soon as Motorman Wetherbee saw a collision was inevitable he shut off the power and stuck to his post.

HOGS RUN WILD IN STREET AFTER CRASH

The Cambridge wreck occurred at the B. & A. Grand Junction Crossing and Albany street. A Cottage Farms train of four box cars and a caboose ran into a western stock train, loaded with hogs and cattle, which was on the main line without its engine.

Harry A. Haltz, the fireman of the freight train, who lived in Allston, was crushed to death. He was twenty-eight years old. John M. Winters, a brakeman, of Somerville, was caught in the jam and was so seriously injured that he may not recover.

Harry Peters, conductor of the Cottage Farms train, and Engineer J. Powers say that the stock train had no lights, and that the fog was so dense it is doubtful if they could have been seen had they been posted.

The tender of the engine was jammed into the engine proper, and Haltz, the fireman, was instantly killed. Engineer Powers was hurled through his window, but escaped with severe shaking up.

Winters, the brakeman, was caught between two cars as the train buckled back when it hit the one which was standing still. At the Relief Hospital, to which he was taken, it was said he had internal injuries which were serious.

It was an hour before the fireman's body could be taken out. The collision threw several of the hog and cattle cars off the track, killing many of the animals and liberating others, which raced through the streets.

The hogs were of a wild razorback variety and as they rushed like wraiths out of the shadows in the breaking daylight they caused more than one a real shock. Many were caught by thrifty citizens and hustled into back yards to await careful preparation for the Winter's pork barrel.

The stalled stock train was in charge of Conductor John Petrie of Springfield and Engineer M. J. Thomas of West Springfield. G. A. Robertson was the fireman. The engine had been detached to shift some cars when the four cars and caboose hit it.

REPORTS OF BIG CAR CRASH GIVE DOCTORS SCARE

An outward bound Lawrence car, loaded with passengers, struck Patrick O'Malley, forty years old, a laborer, of Tufts avenue, Everett, on Broadway, opposite Dexter street, this morning, and threw him twenty feet distant. The motorman blamed the feet distant. He managed to scramble to his feet, but had to be assisted to a physician's office in the neighborhood. His injuries are not serious. He had no broken bones, but was bruised from head to feet. The motorman blamed the fog.

The neighborhood was stirred for some minutes afterward when four ambulances came dashing from as many directions. One came from the Haymarket square station, Boston; one from Everett and two from Charlestown. Each of the drivers said that somebody had telephoned to their stations that there was a terrible collision between two Lawrence cars and that several were killed and many injured.

RATS SLAIN BY SCORES IN HUNT ON WATERFRONT

Several hundred big gray wharf rats which have their haunts beneath the wharves on the water front were driven out at noon to-day by an unusual high tide and swarmed over the wharves, onto the decks of schooners and even into the offices of the big shipping companies. For half an hour several scores of men and boys, aided by dogs and cats, enjoyed a rat hunt. Men and boys, armed with pitchforks, sticks and stones, pursued the rodents back and forth, killing scores. Dozens of rats fled from the wharves to the decks of vessels. The crews, prepared for the rat hunt, had fastened down all hatchways, and scores of rats were killed on the decks before they could get back to the wharves.

Into one shipping office, where there were two women stenographers, two especially fat rats ventured. The rat hunters were called from the wharves by a series of screams and the "boss" of the office hastened back to find the two young women perched on chairs and frantically crying for help.

OPPOSITION TO CANNON IS VANISHING

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Following the arrival in the city of the Republican members of the Ways and Means Committee of the House for the tariff hearing and many other Republican Congressmen to attend to departmental business, postponed until after election, the selection of the Speaker of the Sixty-first Congress was a subject of keen discussion to-day in Washington.

None of the arrivals dared to come out openly in opposition to the re-election of Speaker Cannon, while members who have been closely allied with Mr. Cannon during his occupancy of the chair positively assert that there will be no opposition to him by the time the Republicans meet to caucus on the Speakership.

Mr. Cannon's friends claim to be greatly encouraged by the election.

MILFORD, Nov. 10.—Those members of the Bartenders' Union who have been sued for $3,000 damages each by Daniel F. Carney, president of the Milford Central Labor Union, on charges that they are depriving him of the right to make a living as a bartender, deny that they had Carney discharged.

Carney, in his suits, declares that J. L. Keefe of the Milford House, where Carney was working as a bartender, was told by members of the Bartenders Union that he must discharge him, as he was not a member of their union. Carney says he tried to join the union, but that he was refused admission on the ground that other bartenders were out of work.

SPECIAL GRAND JURY FOR CARMACK MURDER

COLONEL COOPER AND SON FACE IMMEDIATE HEARING FOR CRIME.

By Boston American Leased Wir.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 10.—A special session of the Grand Jury has been called to investigate the killing of former Senator Ward W. Carmack by Robin J. Cooper and the latter's father, Colonel Duncan B. Cooper.

Colonel Cooper will be given a preliminary trial to-day, but it is understood he and his son will both waive examination and be bound over without bail.

Mrs. Carmack, in a state of collapse, arrived to-day from Columbia to accompany there the body of her husband, who was shot to death in a street duel here at 4:30 p. m. yesterday.

The tragedy resulted from repeated attacks made by Mr. Carmack on the stump and in the Nashville Tennessean against Colonel Cooper, who is a half-brother of Judge William F. Cooper of New York, formerly of the Supreme Court of Tennessee. It was understood that Colonel Cooper had threatened to kill Carmack if his name appeared again in the Tennessean, and both men at the instance of their friends had been going armed. It is believed the editorial that was the direct cause of the shooting was one printed yesterday morning under the caption "The Diplomat of the Zweibund." It read:

What Caused the Duel.

"To Major Duncan Brown Cooper, who wrote the great coalition; who achieved the harmonious continuance of incompatible elements; who welded the pewter handle to the wooden spoon; who grafted the dead bough to the living tree and made it to bloom, and burden and bend with wolden fruit; who made playmates of the lambs and the leopard and boon companions of the spider and the fly; who made soda and vinegar dwell placidly in the same bottle, and who taught oil and water how they might agree— To Major Duncan Brown Cooper, the great diplomat of the political Zweibund, be all honor and glory forever."

To Senator Carmack's friends' admonitions to be careful he replied that he did not intend "to show the white feather." Friends of Colonel Cooper, however, say he promised to cease his newspaper attacks on the latter.

Mother Collapses.

Mrs. Carmack's mother, Mrs. Ellen Dunnington, who had been seriously ill at Columbia, was overcome by the news of the killing, and doctors had to be called. The funeral of Mr. Carmack will take place at Columbia to-morrow.

Young Cooper's wound is not serious.

Governor Patterson, who is a close friend of the Coopers has made the following statement regarding the trouble:

"I deeply deplore the unfortunate tragedy. I saw both young Mr. Cooper and his father in the morning and nothing occurred to cause me to suppose any altercation would take place with Senator Carmack or any one else. Colonel Cooper had been very much aggrieved at the use of his name by Senator Carmack, and I learned that he had prepared a note to send Senator Carmack, demanding that in future his name should not be used in editorials, as he was a mere private citizen and should not be subjected to public attacks or ridicule.

Governor's Advice.

"I strongly advised against sending the note as did his son, Robin Cooper and also Mr. Bradford, believing it might cause a difficulty, and urged him to take no notice of the objectionable editorials. Colonel Cooper assured me that he would not send the note and there would be nothing more of it.

"Robin Cooper left the Maxwell house with me in the morning and promised to stay with his father, who seemed to be excited, and prevent any possible trouble. I thought the whole matter was ended until my return from the capital in the evening, when I was shocked to learn of what had occurred."

LAUNCH MIGHTIEST OF ALL WARSHIPS

speed of accomplishing such work. Her keel was laid on December 16 last and in only two cases have foreign builders ever approximated this record.

The North Dakota stands to-day the largest battleship ever projected. The nearest competitor was His Majesty's battleship the Collingwood, launched in England last Saturday. She, like the North Dakota, is of the terrible Dreadnought type, and has a displacement of 19,250 tons. The great ship of to-day's launching goes over the 20,000 mark and in every other respect, armament, steaming radius and speed, excels all ships of her type by a comfortable margin.

The North Dakota is 510 feet long on the load waterline, 518 feet over all; 85 feet 2⅝ inches broad, displaces 20,000 tons, and has a trial draft of 27 feet. She has two 144-inch Curtis marine reversible turbines of 25,000 horsepower, and will have to make a trial speed, under the most rigid specifications, of 21 knots an hour.

Ten Huge Guns at Once.

The North Dakota's turrets are so arranged that all ten of her twelve-inch guns can be trained in the same direction. They may be swept in a complete circle, and being at different elevations may be fired one over the other and still be trained above the water line.

The new ship has two "spider masts," on which the lookouts when in action watch the points where the shots strike and telephone to the gunners what readjustments to make in their sights. These lookouts on the old-style masts were in great danger of having their supports shot from under them. The latticed mast may be shot through repeatedly and will still stand.

About the vessel there is a twenty-one-foot belt of armor plate. The lower section is from nine to eleven inches thick and the upper eight to ten. The armor extends six feet below the water line.

The North Dakota would still keep afloat if three of her air chambers were flooded. Her great iron sides might be punctured in three places and she would not sink.

Her speed will be twenty-one knots an hour. That is to say, she will be the speedIest of the big vessels. Her American turbine engines have been tried out by the scout cruiser Salem, which won laurels as the fastest boat in the navy.

LABOR WAR ON COURTHOUSE

LYNN, Nov. 10.—The city of Lynn has a problem on its hands in its new $50,000 courthouse now about one-third completed, which has practically been boycotted by the trades unions of this city. The contract was let originally to the firm of Vroom Brothers, who are charged by union men with conducting an "open" shop. The building has progressed far enough now for the installation of the plumbing, the subcontract for which is held by Nichols & Drown, who have a strictly union shop.

The plumbers of this firm have notified their employers however, that they will not do the work.

Last night the City Employes' Union, made up of laborers largely, met and denounced the city officials for their action in awarding the contract to a "non-union" firm.

YOU CAN'T CURE CONSTIPATION by taking purgatives, salts, or other drugs that act harshly or violently upon the stomach or bowels.

Ask any doctor, and he will tell you that purgatives of any character distend the bowels and weaken the elastic tissue.

To cure constipation, remove the cause. The cause of constipation is indigestion. If your food digested properly it would continue on from the stomach through the bowels, and would be eliminated without effort and with regularity.

Mi-o-na tablets cure constipation by curing your indigestion. It is not a purgative. It is a stomach tonic and more—it tones up, strengthens, invigorates, refreshes and injects new life into the worn out muscles of the stomach, and in a short time makes the stomach hardy enough to digest anything you eat. It is a powerful yet harmless stomach tonic, and its resistless influence on the stomach is astonishing.

Try Mi-o-na for constipation. One box will cure you of indigestion; two boxes will relieve you of constipation; and best of all, Mi-o-na is such an economical remedy. A large box only costs 50 cents, and then, if you are not satisfied with results, Jaynes Drug Co. will give you your money back.

Mi-o-na cures all stomach disorders whether acute or chronic, such as dyspepsia, vomiting, over-indulgence of the night before, sea or car sickness, stomach sickness of prospective mothers, etc.

Read this from the president of a New York corporation:

"I have been a terrible sufferer from dyspepsia and gastritis for two years. The most eminent physicians prescribed for me with no effect. I have been absolutely cured by your Mi-o-na tablets. The first one gave me a relief almost incredible. Very gratefully yours, Herbert H. Taylor, 501 West 143rd Street, New York City."

TOAST JESTER WHO BANISHES 'BLUE DEVILS'

McGregor and Distinguished Party Welcome Harry Lauder at Banquet.

TRIBUTE FROM GOVERNOR

A distinguished company of Boston's leading citizens, at the invitation of Alexander McGregor, assisted him last night in giving welcome to the great Scotch comedian and artist, Harry Lauder, at an elaborate banquet in the Algonquin Club.

Among those present were Mayor Hibbard, Hugh G. Brown, Alderman Ballantyne, General Charles H. Taylor, Rev. Dr. James Alexander, William Morris, Robert Perrie and Robert Mayo.

Governor Guild sent a letter of regret asking Mr. McGregor to tell Mr. Lauder that his song "Stop Your Tickling, Jock," on the gramaphone, had been a rare consolation to him during his illness.

Tribute From Governor.

"It has kept me going in many hours of sickness and pain," the Governor wrote. This tribute pleased the guest of honor immensely. The Governor expressed the hope that Mr. Lauder will again return to Boston, when he hopes to give him "if not a 'Scotch Blessing' at least a Yankee welcome."

The host of the evening, Mr. McGregor, in a brief address paid high tribute to his guest. In part he said:

"In this strenuous age in which we live life is becoming more and more a matter of contest for survival. The pace is fast, the action is keen, so it is not surprising if the great majority of people, real 'knights of woful countenances,' conform to the dictum of old, 'Man was made to mourn.' But this is not as it should be. The race needs more laughter. 'Laugh and grow fat' is true, literally and metaphorically.

"If he is deserving of honor who makes a rose grow where the desert was, or two blades of grass where but one was, how very much more so is he who by a gesture creates a laugh; by a joke throttles a sigh; by a song drives out 'blue devils.' A few of us find cheer in Scotch, but multitudes on multitudes have drawn their cheer from a Scotsman.

"It is a wonderful power, a marvelous gift, to be able to promote and provoke the hilarity of nations. You will recall what a great American critic cabled to New York when Chevalier was first heard in London in one of his famous coster songs: 'It was well worth a special trip to Europe just to see and hear Chevalier when he sang, "O, I Thought I'd Die."'

Laugh Is Medicine and Food.

"Yes, indeed, a good laugh is food and medicine for the sons of men. We have had with us those who cared nothing for life's prose if they might furnish the poetry. We have one with us who cares nothing for life's tragedy if he can make the people laugh. The divine spark of genius is as essential for the one as for the other. The saddest man I ever met was a Scotchman. The jolliest and merriest man I know I ever met is a Scotchman. The former—where, O, where is he? The latter is at hand.

"Gentlemen, I give you a toast, 'To the maker of human sunshine, the prince of good fellows and the merriest Scotsman of them all—Mr. Lauder.'"

The toast was drank with a cheer.

Mayor Hibbard, introduced by Mr. McGregor as "the Lord Mayor of Boston," assured Mr. Lauder that to him Boston is not only open, but wide open.

In responding to the cordial welcomes Mr. Lauder said:

"The public thinks I'm clever. I'm not. I'm just natural. I've never tried for some of the effects I produce; they just come spontaneous. If I do anything that really pleases the people I say thank God, for I feel that it comes from a superior power. And so I don't appreciate laudation as most men do. I do the best I can, in a natural way—that's all."

Hugh G. Brown said: "From the lad in the coal pit to the artist of to-day is a long step, but his native Scotch endurance, determination, thrift and unlimited self-respect compelled success, and adds another brilliant 'licht' to auld Scotland's hall of fame."

General Taylor, Rev. James Alexander and Alderman Ballantyne spoke briefly and each wished Mr. Lauder success.

LANDLADIES PROTEST AT 'L' CAR SERVICE

Declare New Schedule in South End Injures Business and Hurts Property Values.

APPEAL TO COMMISSION

Landladies of the crowded lodging house district in the South End wish the Boston Elevated Railway Company to have more trolley "stops" in that section on the ground that lodging house business is falling off because lodgers have to walk so far to get a car.

The Railroad Commissioners to-day gave a hearing to the Landladies' and Real Estate Protective Association on its petition that the commissioners compel the Elevated to restore the stopping points for surface cars that were in force previous to May 1 last.

Mrs. Angelina Post, president of the association, was the leading speaker for the petitioners. She said in part:

Wants Old Schedule.

"I wish to impress upon the commission the fact that the Boston Elevated is for us and not we for the Boston Elevated. There is a crying demand in the South End for the speedy restoration of all stopping places that were in existence before May 1. This is especially true of Harrison, Shawmut and Columbus avenues.

"The removal of these stopping places and the diminishing of the number of surface cars that serve to accommodate hundreds of persons that live on the streets that lead off those avenues is causing a tremendous loss to the persons who have their money invested in real estate in that section and is also causing a great loss of business in many ways."

Councilman Augustus D. McClellan of Ward 12 said:

"We do not want rapid transit so much as we want frequent stops, so that persons living in the South End section will not be obliged to walk too far to get a car."

Number of Cars Cut.

Thomas R. Bagley called for a restoration of the full number of Sunday cars that used to run on Columbus avenue, saying that old people in that district who did not want to ride in the Subway or climb the Elevated stairs still wanted Sunday riding and depended on the Sunday surface cars for it.

Alderman Walter Ballantyne said in part:

"I think some of the Tremont street stops have been unwarrantably removed. People want convenience and stops near the side streets on which they live."

Councilman A. I. Davis said his constituents complained to him of a falling-off in lodging business on account of the infrequent stops.

F. E. Snow, attorney for the Elevated, speaking in opposition, furnished a schedule of stops and of passenger traffic. Then he said:

"With few exceptions the stops are not over 500 feet apart. The company received complaints against the frequent stops formerly made. Now no passenger has to walk over 250 feet."

STOCKS UP TO HIGHEST MARK OF WHOLE YEAR

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Southern Pacific and Reading made new high records to-day. Union Pacific early came within a slight fraction of its previous record, while Erie, St. Paul and Steel moved to their high prices to-day.

Trading was on a very heavy scale, and the public was present in large numbers. After the first half-hour buying orders that have accumulated in the hands of brokers over night had been executed, and the profit-taking indulged in by professionals began to have some effect. It caused a recession in prices of from one-half to a point, but did not seem to have any effect on the solidity of the market.

Manipulation is indulged in to a slight extent only. Those in control of the market have adopted a policy of supporting it on each slight decline. They are now making a grand play for the January dividends and interest money, and it is their plan to maintain the activity and strength for a couple of months, unless some great calamity interferes.

Not for ten years has there been so much public interest in the stock market on the buying side as at present.

MORGAN FAST RECOVERING FROM BULLET

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Edward M. Morgan, postmaster of New York, shot down in the street yesterday by Eric H. B. Mackay, a Boston maniac, who then killed himself, is resting easily to-day. His physicians, Dr. John Erdman and Dr. Titus Bull, who performed an operation on him yesterday, predicted his recovery.

Dr. Bull said that Mr. Morgan has shown steady improvement, and if there is no complications he will get well. The bullet of the would-be-assassin and suicide fortunately missed the vital organs and made a clean wound, which lessens the likelihood of blood poisoning.

Mr. Morgan was suffering slight pain to-day and was able to talk of the attempt to kill him. He said he had never seen Mackay before, and was not personally aware of his feud with the postoffice over the refusal to allow him the use of a letter box with which to conduct a stock jobbing business under a trade name.

WOMAN TRIES SUICIDE UPON SOUND LINER

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 10.—Ethel Caplan, who claims to be the wife of Arthur Shapara of New York, attempted suicide on the Joy line steamer New York for Providence last night by taking insect powder. She bought the powder for ten cents on Canal street, New York, and after she was aboard the steamer took it. Her cries attracted the steward, and she was cared for by the boat physician.

At Providence she was taken to the Rhode Island Hospital, where she will recover. To Police Captain Peter B. Cannon she said that her husband had left her about a year ago. She had been unable to locate him and became discouraged because she could not get work.

Millen pleaded guilty. Following the judgment an appeal was taken. It was the first case prosecuted under the new law in Cambridge.

WILL OPEN DAY NURSERY AS MOTHER'S BOON

"Fairy Kingdom" Is What Enthusiastic Woman and Parent Styles New Project.

WILL CARE FOR BABIES

"A boon for mothers."

That is what Mrs. H. K. Ellis of Norfolk Downs styles her Downtown Nursery, which will be opened next Monday, November 16 at No. 414 Washington street, near the corner of Summer street. Day Nursery is the formal term. Mrs. Ellis calls it her "Fairy Kingdom," and talks about it with all the delight of a mother who has two children herself.

The "Fairy Kingdom" will be a temporary home for small children of all ages. When the mother wishes to go shopping and does not care to leave her babe at home or carry it with her throughout the day she will now leave it at the "Fairy Kingdom," where a corps of trained nurses headed by Mrs. Ellis herself, will take care of the child.

If the parents desire to go to the theatre, a telephone call to Mrs. Ellis will get a trained nurse to take care of their infant until their return.

Mrs. Ellis's plan has been styled a twentieth century idea, and it proved successful in Buffalo when conducted by her on a smaller scale. Her Boston "Fairy Kingdom" will occupy the whole floor at No. 414 Washington street and will be divided into two sections. One will be set off for infants unable to walk, while the other will be a veritable child's fairyland of toys, about which the youngsters can play to their heart's content, always under the supervision and care of the nurses. At 12 o'clock a lunch costing 10 cents will be served the little ones, and the members of her club, warrants Mrs. Ellis, will not cry for their mothers after a brief stay in fairyland.

Mrs. Ellis is enthusiastic over her plan, and is confident that many mothers will take advantage of it. Not only for the mother, but for the child's sake the experiment would be beneficial, she asserts, in the first place saving the child a long grind through the shopping district and secondly giving her some idea of the people around her, all of one big family.

FLEEING THIEF DROPS LOOT

While Mrs. Winthrop Slade and her two maids were busy in the yard of her home at No. 87 Lakeview avenue, Cambridge, a man entered the house by the front door, walked up stairs, opened a trunk which belonged to one of the girls and took from it $50. Then he looked into a desk, where he found $8.

A suit case was lying handy, so he picked it up and went down stairs to the dining room, where he packed up silver ware valued at over $200. As he started to leave, he was seen through the window by one of the maids, who shouted an alarm. Startled, the man dropped the suit case and made his ecape before any one arrived.

EXPECT 7,000 HIBERNIANS IN BIG PARADE

National President Matthew Cummings to Head Line To-morrow Evening.

FOR OPENING OF BAZAAR

Encouraged by the reports received from the officers of the various divisions of the Ancient Order of Hibernians throughout the State, National President Mathew Cummings, who has been selected chief marshal of the parade to be held to-morrow evening in Boston, incident to the opening of the Catholic Charities Bazaar in Mechanics building, Huntington avenue, feels confident that over 7,000 men will be in the line of March.

In speaking of the parade to-day to a reporter for the BOSTON AMERICAN, Mr. Cummings stated that the route of the parade would be changed somewhat on account of the congested condition of Boylston street near the subway entrance. The parade will form at Arlington street and instead of going to Boylston street it will turn into Beacon street, to Charles street, to Columbus avenue, to West Newton street, to Mechanics Hall.

"Since yesterday," said Mr. Cummings, "I have received assurances from the members of Division No. 78 of Dorchester that they would turn out in full numbers. Division No. 40 of Jamaica Plain also will join the paraders. Branches of the military arm of the order in Lynn will take part and will be accompanied by one of the finest bands in the State. I am confident that over 7,000 men will participate in the parade."

INDIGESTION AND DISTRESS FROM YOUR DISORDERED STOMACH GOES

You haven't Catarrh of the Stomach, or Nervousness, or Gastritis, or Cancer, etc. Prove this by taking Pape's Diapepsin after your very next meal. Convince yourself within five minutes that your actual disease was sour, acid Stomach—Food fermentation—that every bite you ate turned to Stomach gas, Stomach poison and Acid, which makes you feel sick and miserable, producing such symptoms as pain in the pit of the stomach, Difficulty in breathing after a meal, Headaches, Belching, Heartburn, Nauseous breath, Water brash, Biliousness, Sour risings, Gas on Stomach and many other bad feelings.

Indigestion is a result, not a cause, of your misery. If the Stomach is sour, your food becomes tainted, and that's why you have these stomach disorders.

Ask your pharmacist to show you a case of Pape's Diapepsin, which costs only 50 cents. Read what this effective Stomach and digestive treatment contains, and how absolutely harmless it must be; how it does for the Stomach what the washing and sun bath do for the churn; absolutely removes every corrupting or tainting element, and will digest all the food you can eat.

Go to your druggist and get some Diapepsin now, then eat anything you want at your next meal, and you will not suffer from Indigestion or Stomach trouble. Each bite of food will taste good, and, besides, you will not need liver regulators to keep your intestines and Stomach clean and fresh.

Now and forever rid yourself of the misery of Indigestion and Stomach trouble. Make your meals a pleasure by going to the table with a healthy appetite.

FOUGHT HARD TO RETAIN FORMULA THAT MADE MONEY

Court Decision Finally Gives Westerner Permanent Right To Remarkable Medicine.

L. T. Cooper, who believes that stomach trouble causes ninety per cent. of the ill health of the present generation, has been in New York three weeks. His claims are now admitted by an astonishing number of New Yorkers, and the young man is winning new adherents every day.

Cooper stated Tuesday that fifty thousand people in New York city alone are now trying his medicine. An hour spent at the young man's headquarters, where he is meeting the public, would indicate this statement to be correct, judging from the numbers who call in that length of time.

In speaking of his success, recently, Cooper said: "I believed ten years ago that any one who could produce a formula that would regulate the stomach would have a fortune. When I got hold of this formula I knew within a month I was right and my fortune was made. I called the medicine Coopers' New Discovery, although I did not get up the formula. I have owned it, however, for three years. I have had one lawsuit over it, whch I won in the Cincinnati courts. When it was settled The Cooper Medicine Company of Dayton, Ohio, became the only company in the world that can prepare the medicine. The medicine has sold like wildfire wherever introduced. I know it would be just as successful in New York as it was in the West. That is why I said, when I first arrived, that thousands would buy it before I left."

Statements obtained Tuesday from a number of Cooper's callers who have tried the medicine are very strong. Among them Mr. Oscar Danner, of 73 Nelson street, Brooklyn, was specially emphatic. He said: "I am a well man after four years' constant indigestion and stomach trouble. Anyone who has ever had indigestion knows what this means. I don't think anything about this Cooper medicine—I know. I know it has made life a different thing for me. I don't believe Cooper ever had a more skeptical man taking his medicine than I was when I started, because I had tried everything on the face of the globe trying to get relief. I actually refused to believe the medicine was helping me the first few days. I had to admit it, however. Today I sleep like a log, have a fine appetite and can eat anything. The medicine relieved the cause of my ill health almost at once."

Cooper's New Discovery is now on sale at leading drug stores throughout the United States. It has made a wonderful record. Ask your druggist for it.

BRING CHARGE OF VIOLATING ELECTION LAW

Report Declares Voters Took Part in Democratic and Republican Caucuses.

MAKE BROOKLINE PROBE

DEDHAM, Nov. 10.—That there were violations of the election laws at the Republican caucus held at Brookline on September 22 was the statement made to-day when Judge Charles F. Perkins of Brookline filed his report with Clerk Louis A. Cook of the Norfolk County Court, charging several men with violating section 101, chapter 560, of the acts of 1907.

In his report Judge Perkins states that Francis L. [illegible] of No. 1 Elm street, Brookline, voted at the Democratic caucus in April and that he presented himself to vote at the Republican caucus in September, was challenged, took oath and voted. It is further charged that Michael J. Gibbons of No. 7 Roberts street, John Kelly of No. 87 Pearl street, Augustine A. Murray of No. 77 Park avenue and Thomas J. Walsh of No. 30 Walker street voted at both the Republican and Democratic caucuses.

The report further states that a number of other men voted at the Democratic caucus in April, and that at the Republican caucus held in September they tried to vote, but were challenged, and because of the challenge did not vote. The list submitted is as follows:

Stephen J. Cunningham, of No. 20 White place; Francis F. Cusick, No. 11 Pearl street; Joseph Donovan, No. 63 Pearl street; Thomas J. Ryan, No. 95 Pearl street; John F. Hurd, No. 28 Brookline street; John G. Lally, No. 22 Roberts street; F. F. Larkin, No. 82 Pearl street; Charles A. Lunney, No. 70 Brookline avenue; Michael Mellican, No. 3 High place; John J. Murray, No. 20 Roberts street; George McIntosh, No. 245 [illegible] street; Patrick Sullivan, No. 14 Hart street; Jeremiah [illegible], No. 35 Walker street; Michael Daley, No. 26 Emerald street; John H. [illegible], No. 421 Washington street; Charles J. Gillespie, No. 30 Juniper street; P. H. [illegible], No. 4 Perry street; James [illegible], No. 74A Pearl street.

The investigation of these alleged violations came as the result of a complaint made by Leonard C. Wason of Brookline, in which he charged several violations of the election laws.

A report has been given to the district attorney and he will announce what action he will take in a few days.

VENTURA, Cal., Nov. 10.—Invitations are out for the wedding of Miss Angie Jane Williams of this city to Rudolph J. Reimer of Brooklyn, N. Y. The wedding is set for the evening of November 25 in the Congregational Church. Mr. Reimer is a well-known New York city broker.

NEWSPAPER PUBLISHER KILLS SELF

William Oswald of Lawrence Leaves Note Directing Searchers to His Body.

WORRIED OVER FINANCES

LAWRENCE, Nov. 10.—The body of William Oswald, president of the Lawrence Telegram Publishing Company, was found early today in a field back of the old Frye homestead at a spot indicated in a rude map of the district which he had left in a note on the desk of Kimball M. Colby, managing editor of the Telegram.

A bullet hole in Mr. Oswald's right temple showed how he had come to his death. The police are now hunting for the revolver with which the shooting was done.

"You will find me here," were the words written on a cross on the diagram which Mr. Oswald had left for Mr. Colby. The cross was drawn on the spot near the rear of the old Frye homestead.

Although the Lawrence police searched the country around the Frye estate for several hours after 1 o'clock this morning the body of the dead man was not found until 8:15. Then Frank Rower and John A. Henry, two printers employed on the Telegram, came upon the body of their dead employer.

For years Mr. Oswald, who was one of the most prominent business men in this city, conducted the Boston Department Store at Essex and Appleton streets here under the firm name of Simmons & Oswald and later the William Oswald Company. Mr. Oswald lost heavily in the panic of 1893 and at that time his physicians advised that he retire from business. This he did and he spent two years in Europe travelling and resting.

He did not escape losses in the financial reverses of last year, and it is known that he worried over his affairs. He was one of the incorporators and a director of the Merchants' National Bank, a member of the Home and Country Clubs. He lived in a handsome brick house in Jackson street.

Colonel Gifford has given this lecture in all the large cities and towns from Maine to Florida.

Harry Lauder's Simple Scotch Songs Win Hearts of Bostonese

Famous Singer Given Reception by Scots Society

Harry Lauder.

Lauder at the Orpheum.

Harry Lauder, the merriest Scotsman of them all, made his first appearances in Boston at the Orpheum Theatre yesterday afternoon and last night. He made good all that has been said about him on both sides of the Atlantic. As a singing character comedian who reflects and touches the heart of the "plain people," as Lincoln called them, Lauder stands without a peer. He is of the people himself, and as he says: "I do not act or strive for effects. I am just my natural self and I am glad when I make those who come to hear me happy and pleased."

At both performances yesterday Lauder was welcomed to Boston by audiences which completely filled the theatre. In both audiences were scores of British people who welcomed Lauder as their national comedian, and their enthusiasm showed itself in cries of "Harry, sing us 'Stop Your Ticklin,' Jock," and other songs he made famous in the British music halls. The boxes were draped with American, Scottish and English flags, and last night they were filled with members of the Scottish Charitable Aid Society, headed by Alexander McGregor, former president of the society. Mayor Hibbard was the guest of the evening. A number of seats in the orchestra had been reserved by members of the society, and they gave Lauder an enthusiastic welcome. At the conclusion of his night performance the curtain was raised, and there stood the famous pipers' band of kilted Scotchmen, who played while the surprised Lauder gave a highland fling dance to the music of the pipes and drums.

While Scotchmen hail because Lauder's costumes, his songs, his speech, is theirs, his humor goes beyond race and nation, he is simply, deeply human.

Dressed as a British soldier he sings a song telling how he told his sweetheart good-bye as he started off to the war in India, and of how he would again return to her. Then dressed as a ragged little Scottish schoolboy, he sings, "I'm the Saftest (Softest) of the Family," a rather pathetic, plaintive story of the simpleton boy. He shows his boyish treasures, his bean shooter, his marbles, his whistle, and boy-like brings them all forth from his pockets. For pure comedy, Lauder, as a Scotchman dressed for a wedding, sings of "The Wedding of Sandy McNabb." Perhaps his best effort—certainly one of his most popular—is the song beginning "I Love a Lassie," the title of which is "My Scotch Blue Bell."

All of Lauder's songs are simple, and are different from anything to which Americans are accustomed.

Manager Morris has surrounded Lauder with a most excellent bill, headed by Clarice Vance, the Southern singer. Maud Hall and Carlton Macy have an amusing sketch; the Three Diamonds are French street musicians, and Alice Lorette and her marvellous dog give poses from the hunting field.

Many Stars at Keith's.

It was a great bill for the week that started in last night at Keith's, a bill practically of stars and one that delighted an audience as large as it was enthusiastic. Violet Dale and her company present two novel sketches, "A Mexican Tangle" and a travesty on "The Thief." Miss Dale in the Mexican sketch portrays five different characterizations and in her second sketch gives some capital imitations of Margaret Illington. Miss Dale is a whole show in herself. She was rapturously applauded.

Zelie de Lussan, always popular in Boston, and ever welcome, is here on her annual visit. Her songs were exquisitely rendered and she was forced to respond to repeated encores.

Charles Evans of "Old Hoss Hoey" fame appeared in a sketch, "It's Up to You, William," and made a decided hit. His supporting company is excellent.

Other good numbers are Walter C. Kelly, in monologue; Avery and Hart, in colored comedy; the Six Bonesettis, in gymnastics; a new Japanese troupe of acrobats; Five Musical Sailors, musicians; Londe and Tilly, athletes; the Carbrey Brothers, dancers, and "La Petite Revue," a holdover from last week with a lot of new songs and dialogue added.

Triumph at Boston Theatre.

Eleanor Gordon has had great success in all of her appearances at the Boston Theatre this season, but in none has she scored such a triumph as she did last night as Dorothy in "Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall," which the Boston Theatre Stock Company is presenting at the Boston Theatre this week. From beginning to end Miss Gordon is in the play. The part calls for great versatility, and Miss Gordon again demonstrates that she has a wide range of capabilities in portrayal.

She is light, frivolous, pettish, bold, stubborn, pleading, suffering, enraged and loving as her lines require. To portray all these emotions in one evening and portray them satisfactorily is by no means an easy task.

While the action of the play centres around Miss Gordon principally, she is well supported by the other members of the company.

The staging of the piece is excellent.

Neil Burgess at Globe.

Boston's old favorite comedian, Neil Burgess, was given a hearty welcome to Boston yesterday, when he appeared for his first performance of a limited engagement in "The County Fair" at the Globe Theatre. This clever impersonator of a female role, Aunt Abby, is well known to every Boston theatregoer, and his acting last night brought forth warm greetings.

All the many types of comedy, the pathos and the real old-fashioned New England farm life, which abounds in "The County Fair," were presented in the same clever manner that has always marked the production of Mr. Burgess and his company. As an added attraction a number of songs were rendered by the Village Quartet.

"Cold Molasses" won the race and saved "Aunt Abby's" farm, and the story was carried along in the same charming manner that has always marked this production. Supporting Mr. Burgess are several of his well known players, including Miss Ernestine Veronee, Miss Gail Y. Towers, Bartley McCullum, Thomas O'Brien and William F. Sullivan.

Neil Burgess is certainly popular in Boston, and his popularity was never more fully attested than yesterday.

Comedy at Castle Square.

John Craig, supported by an admirable company, opened at the Castle Square Theatre last night in the laughing comedy "The Man on the Box." The play is from Harold MacGrath's novel and has been given in Boston only once before, away back in the days of Henry E. Dixey, with the famous comedian himself in the title roll. It was given an elaborate and admirable presentation last night. John Craig, as the happy-go-lucky and mirthful army officer who masquerades as a coachman, fitted the part to perfection. His drollness and cleverness had the audience in screams of laughter from the rising of the curtain.

Miss Betty Annesley, the mischief-loving girl, is personified to a nicety by Mary Young. The whole supporting company was excellent.

Lew Fields at Majestic.

Lew Fields in "The Girl Behind the Counter," delighted another large audience at the Majestic Theatre last evening. The play is bright with plenty of catchy music and clever dances. It has lively comedy of the usual Lew Fields variety and all the "go" which is required by admirers of the musical comedy style of entertainment. Mr. Fields is the chief exponent of humor in the piece.

Genee at the Colonial.

Mlle. Genee's farewell week in Boston began at the Colonial Theatre last evening, and she and "The Soul Kiss" drew an audience which testified to the great appreciation of both by local playgoers. The great variety of her dances and her grace in each are most remarkable. She provides an entertainment quite out of the ordinary. William Norris is especially good as J. Lucifer Mephisto, and, although new to the role, plays it with the facility that goes with long assumption. "The Soul Kiss" is as lively a production as the Colonial has had upon its stage in a long time.

"Wildfire" at Hollis.

Lillian Russell in "Wildfire," a clever and most laughable racing comedy, began her final week at the Hollis Street Theatre last evening. As the heroine of this dramatic offering, Miss Russell is radiant in appearance, and has made a place for herself on the dramatic stage as distinct as the one she filled in the world of comic opera. The way in which the comedy has been staged is striking. Every one of the players is particularly well fitted for the various roles. The audience is kept in roars of laughter.

"The Thief" at the Park.

"The Thief" was still the attraction at the Park Theatre last evening and the large audience present showed that Boston has fallen in line with New York in approval of this absorbing play by Henri Bernstein. This week and one more will complete the run of the play at this house. Kyrle Bellew remains the central figure of the production and his interpretation of the character of the husband is one of the most interesting stage studies he has ever given in Boston. Miss Katherine Grey, as the wife, moves her audiences to tears.

"Merry Widow" at Tremont.

"The Merry Widow" began another week last evening as the attraction at the Tremont Theatre, and the excellence of the production by this Henry W. Savage Company was never more manifest. Principals and chorus united in making the performance lively and satisfactory. The plot has strong inherent interest, the music is far above the operatic average, the company is of the highest excellence, and the dances fascinating. All these features unite to make "The Merry Widow" one of the greatest amusement successes which this city has ever known.

Bowdoin Square Theatre.

"The Sign of the Four" is the play which began the week at the Bowdoin Square Theatre. It is based upon a book by Sir A. Conan Doyle, the creator of the character of Sherlock Holmes. The play is a very interesting one from every point of view, and was given a strong rendition by the stock company. Hal Clarendon appeared as Sherlock Holmes, and Charlotte Hunt and Rose Tiffany were also in the cast. The moving pictures were an interesting feature.

Grand Opera House.

"The Angel of the Trail," being played at the Grand Opera House this week, is without doubt one of the strongest presented there in some time. Filled with emotional scenes, interspersed with bits of quaint humor, the play is sure to fascinate the lover of dramas.

The scenes are laid in Southern California where "The Angel of the Trail," Perdita Bonagua Cortez, is left to be reared in a Californian mission, after her father and mother have been murdered. Everybody falls in love with her, even the villain, Don Michael.

The struggle finally resolves itself into a bitter contest between Don Michael and Gerald Mayburn, the secret service man. Valora Statlin, who loved Don Michael, and tries to win him, causes much trouble, and in an attempt to kill Perdita, accidently shoots Don Michael.

As Perdita, Selma Herman came up to every expectation. She is well known among Boston audiences and her appearance on the stage last evening was the occasion for applause. James Moore as Don Michael, although the villian, won the hearts of the audience by his portrayal of the outlaw.

Palace Theatre.

"Blue Ribbon Girls" is the name of the band of burlesque beauties which Manager Waldron of the Palace Theatre offers this week to the patrons of his temple of fun. In "The Blue Ribbons en Route" and "The Recruit" the clever comedians and vivacious girls in the organization had ample opportunity to show how well they can sing, dance and otherwise amuse. The olio performance included a number of high-class vaudeville acts.

Columbia Theatre.

At the Columbia Theatre yesterday a popular extravaganza organization known as "Williams's Ideals" gave a show which gained for them at once loud applause and unstinted favor. The "Ideals" have a coterie of clever principals and dainty chorus girls, and the specialty acts are of first-class quality. There will be an exciting wrestling bout on Wednesday night, and on Friday evening the amateurs will contribute.

Howard.

"The Ducklings" are the lively bunch of burlesquers who appeared at the Howard, and the big audiences found them constituting an up-to-date musical and comedy organization. The olio acts were all up to the high standard required by Manager Hunt. Among those who took part in this branch of the festivities were Charley Doyle and Little George, as well as the Berg sisters and others. In the house bill there were many fine acts, including a classic exhibition of bronze statues entitled "The Art Beautiful."

Austin & Stone's.

Pierre Gasnier and wife, French athletes, astonished those who visited Austin & Stone's Museum yesterday and witnessed their prowess as heavyweight lifters. In the theatre a fine show was given by the Merry Maids company. The curio hall exhibit was very interesting.

Hub Theatre.

A fine bill is offered at the Hub this week. The feature act of vaudeville is "The Emperors of Music," Booth and Hinks, in singing and dancing, and Steve Gordon, monologue comedian, are good. In the picture part of the programme there are the usual comedy, emotional and sensational picture successes.

Scenic Temple.

Scenic Temple was thronged with women and children at the performances yesterday, and the building fairly echoed with the laughter and glee of the little ones, excited by the humorous moving pictures and the comedy of the entertainers.

Bijou Dream.

A splendid motion picture of the great Catholic parade in Boston last Sunday is being shown at the Bijou Dream every afternoon. In taking this picture, Mr. Keith had the operator secure sections of nearly the entire parade, and hundreds of persons taking part in it are easily recognized.

Winter Garden.

An extra force of men was put at work yesterday in the Winter Garden, Park Square Coliseum, in order to get this vast area in readiness for the opening of Boston's latest amusement enterprise, next Monday at noon. The first great free attraction will be Oscar V. Babcock in his death-defying loop the loop and leap the gap on a bicycle.

RECOMMENDED FOR THROAT TROUBLE

People in public life, upon whose vocal organs there is more or less constant demand, consider the "common cold" one of the serious afflictions. A noted preacher in one of the larger towns in Massachusetts contracted a cold which would not yield to ordinary treatment, and in a short time became so hoarse that he was unable to make himself heard in ordinary conversation, and preaching from the pulpit was out of the question.

Acting on a friend's advice he took a couple of drops of Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure on a lump of sugar, resulting in almost immediate relief from the hoarseness. It is claimed that a half ounce of Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure, mixed with two ounces of Glycerine and a half pint of good Whiskey, taken in doses of a teaspoonful every four hours, will break up a cold quickly and cure any cough that is curable. Purchase the ingredients separately and mix them yourself.

Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure is a combination of the active principles of the Pine and Santalwood trees, carefully compounded to retain all of the healing, health-giving virtues for which these trees are famous. In order to insure its freshness and purity, it is put up only in half-ounce vials, each vial securely sealed in a round wooden case, with an engraved wrapper, showing plainly the name, Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure, guaranteed under the Food and Drugs Act, June 30, 1906, Serial No. 451, prepared only by Leach Chemical Co., Cincinnati, O. The mixture of Whiskey and Glycerine with the Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure makes a sufficient quantity to last the average family an entire year.

DARING MAN RULES WIFEY OFF BALLOT

City Solicitor Boutwell of Malden Decides Against Better Half.

SHE SAYS THAT HE IS RIGHT

Husbands, attention!

Here is a man who has, in his capacity as a city official, made a ruling against his own wife.

And the odd part of it is that his wife agrees with him. The interesting question is being raised as to how many husbands would come so happily out of a difficult position.

The husband in the case is City Solicitor Harvey L. Boutwell of Malden. He has just decided that the name of his own wife, Mrs. Nellie Boutwell, cannot appear on the Republican caucus ballot as a candidate for the Malden School Board nomination. So Mrs. Boutwell, while upholding her husband in his decision, will file nomination papers and run independent.

Mrs. Boutwell, an amiable woman of middle age, who has served four years on the board, says:

"I am perfectly satisfied with my husband's decision against me. Although he ruled against me, his decision was a just one. I am not disappointed. I am still in the fight for the board. I shall file nomination papers and run as an independent candidate.

"A Peculiar Situation."

"My husband's decision in ruling out my papers is the result of a peculiar situation that has never before risen in this State. This year's Legislature passed an act cutting down the Malden School Board from nine members to five. This act was ratified by the people at the State election last week. This action abolished the old school board. The old board, according to the act, will go out of existence on January 1.

"Several days before the State election I filed papers to have my name on the Republican caucus ballots. Then the State election came and wiped out the old board. It was then too late to file new papers in order to get my name on the caucus ballots. If the people of Malden had not ratified the legislative act cutting down the size of the board my papers would have been all right.

"Committee in Quandary."

"The Republican City Committee were in a quandary as to whether my papers were all right in view of the vote on the referendum at the city election abolishing the board. My husband is City Solicitor, so the Republican City Committee put the question to him for settlement. The Republican City Committee did not know whether or not to put my name on the ballots. My husband decided that in view of the new situation which had arisen my name should not be allowed on the ballot.

"If he had decided in my favor I would have had an advantage over the other candidates for the board, for William R. Reed and myself were the only ones who filed papers and consequently would be the only ones whose names would appear on the Republican caucus ballots.

"I am glad that my husband decided as he did, for I would not like to have an unfair advantage over the other candidates."

BURNS WILL MEET JOHNSON ON DEC. 26

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 10.—All doubt as to the date for the Burns-Johnson fight at Sydney, Australia, was ended by the receipt of a cablegram from Hugh McIntosh, the fight promoter, who will stage the world's heavyweight championship battle.

McIntosh in his message declared that the fight would take place December 26 at 11 o'clock in the morning. Both December 1 and 2 had been mentioned for the battle.

The person who has once experienced the pleasure of a cup of delicious "Salada" Tea is not easily persuaded to accept a substitute. **

PLAN TO SAVE CITY CASH IN ASH CONTRACT

Investigating Committee Reports Reforms in Present System to Mayor.

WOULD LET WORK BY BIDS

The special commission appointed by Mayor Hibbard to look into the collection of garbage and ashes, and what is done with it, has reported. The commissioners are F. R. Bangs, Arthur M. Huddell, Frank L. Young and William Jackson.

The report recommends that when the city contract with the New England Sanitary Product Company expires on January 1, 1912, the city should ask for bids for doing the entire work of collecting and disposing of garbage, ashes and combustible waste. The report says:

"While it is estimated that the saving to the city made this year over last will be approximately $60,000, the commission is of the opinion that a further saving amounting to a larger sum could be made by having the work of collection and disposal of refuse done by contract rather than by day labor.

"If the city builds and owns incinerators the commission is of the opinion that it could then lease them in connection with a general contract for the disposal of city waste, or it might be found on advertising the bids that it would be more practical to have the contractors build their own incinerators."

The commission thinks that the best way of disposing of garbage, ashes and combustible waste is to burn it. It thinks that the city is paying more to get rid of the stuff than is necessary.

SUITS TIE UP BEQUESTS TO YOUNG POTTER

Newport Society Man, Nephew of Late Bishop, Sued by Tailors.

MARRIED BRITISH BEAUTY

NEWPORT, R. I., Nov. 10.—Five suits, tying up the third interest of Francis H. Potter, nephew of the late Bishop Potter of New York, in the estate of his aunt, Miss Sophia E. Blatchford of this city, have been filed in the courts here. They are for tailoring and board bills, said to have been contracted before young Potter's marriage three years ago to the English heiress, Miss Margaret Cary.

Young Potter belongs to one of the families in the old Newport social colony and until he went to Europe a few years ago, where he has been attached to the British consulate, was prominent in society here. His marriage to the British beauty was the society event of the season.

The suits are brought by Brooks Brothers, the fashionable New York tailors; John Patterson & Company, William J. Carroll, Carl Berger and Frederick S. Cox.

Under the terms of her will, Miss Blatchford left her estate, which is understood to be a large one, to her nephews and niece, Francis H. Potter, Philip Barton Key Potter and Alice Key Potter. Their shares are to remain in trust until they reach the age of twenty-five.

Young Francis Potter is the brother of Mrs. Newton Adams, formerly Miss Alice Potter, famed as the "blush rose beauty," which brought him a great deal of attention among society people.

BOSS STABBED, TWO WORKMEN UNDER ARREST

Other Employes Rush to Defence of Foreman at East Boston Building.

CAUGHT AND OVERPOWERED

Meliano Cologia and George Maffeno were arrested by Patrolmen Stewart and Murphy of the East Boston police on the charge of assaulting Foreman Howard Bouck at the Standard Oil Company's plant in East Boston. It was said the assailants were overpowered when ten or twelve other employes rushed to the rescue.

Bouck's left wrist was badly gashed by a knife which Colgia drew and Maffena received a gash on his lower lip during his flight when the rescue party came to Bouck's relief.

Colgia and Maffena, along with five other Italians, reported for work early to-day at the new building which the Standard Oil Company is erecting in East Boston. Because of the dampness and the threat of rain Foreman Bouck told the men there would be no work in the morning, but that they might come this afternoon.

Colgia and Maffena wanted to work whether or no and started to make trouble. Spectators say Colga lunged at Bouck with a knife and the latter parried the thrust with his left arm, receiving a bad cut. Then Bouck started to run as Maffena advanced on him. They pursued the foreman's but were overtaken and overpowered by other employes, saving Bouck from further injury.

So declared Dr. McElroy of Washington, addressing the Hyde Park Women's Ethical Club.

"Men and women addicted to drink and other corruptive practices are benefiting humanity by their self destruction," asserted Dr. McElroy. "These human perverts, by their moral suicide, leave the world to those capable of self-restraint and similar virtues."

Mrs. Murphy testified that she had been obliged to teach music to support herself, and that she was anxious to have and maintain her children according to her own wishes.

Mr. Murphy denied the charges of his wife, and said that he would be glad to make a home for her if her mother remained away.

Judge George suspended the case until to-morrow.

Corbett was given only a short term in the reformatory, Chief Hill pleading with the court to have the charge made simple larceny rather than highway robbery.

Corbett was caught Saturday night after a half mile chase by Patrolman Crocker of the Everett police.

TO DIE WITHOUT TRIAL BY JURY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The case of Adolphus Coulsen, who is under sentence of death in the Panama Canal zone, the penalty being inflicted in a trial without a jury, has been dismissed for want of jurisdiction by the Supreme Court of the United States.

SMART SET AT HORSE SHOW IN DIRECTOIRES

Society Leaders in Parisian Fashions Give Horse Show Crowds a Shock.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—With the opening of the Horse Show society displayed the styles on which it has set the seal of its approval. Much that is startling and much that is beautiful is seen. Among some of the most notable costumes are those worn by Mrs. Philip Lydig, Mrs. Root (Mrs. Lydig's sister), Mrs. Edward Bell and Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish.

Mrs. Root's afternoon gown is in rose-colored broadcloth, the skirt made long and tight in the prevailing mode. The jacket bodice is cut out very low over a guimpe of rose chiffon. A band of Cluny lace across the front of the waist is softened by being placed under the chiffon. Bands of satin with embroidered motifs and tassels trim the upper part of the bodice. The tucker is of silver gauze with a strip of sable under the flaring frill.

Mrs. Philip Lydig has a striking evening gown of black satin. The high, tightly draped bodice is of velvet with chemisette and sleeves of black spotted net. The low V-shaped neck is one of the season's novelties. It is outlined by a band of black satin, leaving the space above undraped. Clasped tightly about the neck is a stock of black velvet with a wide black tulle frill at top and bottom. On the white skin and fitting into the V of the bodice is a large pearl locket.

Suspended from the right shoulder is a shawl-like drape of black net, fringed with jet, and brought around back and front, to be caught up on the left side of the skirt.

One of Mrs. Edward Bell's gowns is of gold-colored meteor crepe, the bodice pleated simply down to the narrow girdle of embroidery. The overskirt at the back is open nearly its full length, both edges of the opening being bordered by a band of self-toned embroidery in repousse work. Below the opening the skirt is drawn up the centre in gathers.

Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish wears a very handsome coat of gold broadcloth with deep cuffs of heavy gray duchesse satin embroidered in a Chinese design of gray and gold. The back is arranged with an embroidered panel and knotted fringe. The high collar is of silver fox with gold loops.

TWO ACCUSED OF SMUGGLING IN CHINAMEN

Charged with smuggling Chinamen into the United States from Mexico when on a supposedly innocent fishing trip off the Labrador coast, Captain Harvey Daly of the two-masted schooner Freddie W. Hilton, hailing from this port, was to-day arraigned before United States Commissioner Hayes, in company with Philip M. Springer, a florist doing business at City Hall square, the latter being said to have been a silent partner in the smuggling scheme. The men entered a plea of not guilty, and were held in $2,000 each.

The vessel was seized at Pensacola, Fla., on November 2, it being alleged that it put into that port for repairs after encountering a severe storm when a few days out of Vera Cruz, where it is said that Daly shipped a large number of Chinamen who were kept in hiding at that point until the schooner arrived from the North.

Daly was not present when the seizure took place, but was arrested in this city later by Deputy United States Marshal Ruhl, at the same time that Springer was taken into custody.

The schooner is owned by Captain J. Trainer and was chartered to the men who are under arrest through the brokerage firm of Rogers & Webb, who leased the vessel to them for a fishing trip to the coast of Labrador, and it was supposed to be in the far North when the seizure took place in Florida.

The United States authorities are said to also be looking for twelve members of the crew that shipped with Daly. Daly resides at No. 21 Maverick square, East Boston.

The Lion of Lucerne

By REV. THOMAS B. GREGORY

One of the chief attractions to tourists in the charming little city of Lucerne, Switzerland, is the figure of a lion, hewn out of the living rock on the side of a high cliff at the extremity of the town.

The Lion is of colossal size, and is represented as wounded to death, with a spear in its side, yet endeavoring in its last agony to protect from injury a shield bearing the Fleur-de-lis of France, which he holds in his paw.

This wonderful piece of work was designed by the great Danish sculptor Thorwaldsen, and is a monument to the memory of the celebrated Swiss Guards that fell in defence of the palace of the Tuileries at Paris, on the ever-memorable Tenth of August, 1792.

Beneath the Lion are the names of the officers of the Guard, along with the date.

When the Commune, headed by the infuriated Marseillais, surrounded the Tuileries, the National Guard and some nine hundred men of the Swiss Guard were in charge of its defence.

The King—a kind-hearted soul and in no sense a lover of blood—desiring to avoid killing his people, would not allow the guard to fire upon the crowd that was surging up against the palace walls.

Set Tinder to the People's Rage

"Don't fire!" he commanded. "There will be some way out of this without shedding my subjects' blood.

But it was getting dangerous in the Tuileries. The King and his family fled for safety to the Hall of the National Assembly, and the Swiss Guard, finding it impossible to keep back the mighty mob, at length fired, killing and wounding many. The officers giving the command, the Guard could do nothing but obey.

Instantly the rage of the people burned like a tempest of fire. Joined by the National Guard, they broke into the palace and murdered all whom they found in it.

Later on seven hundred of the Swiss Guard were massacred, only two or three escaping.

The affair was as disastrous to the royal family as to the Swiss Guard. A fresh charge arose against the King—that he had ordered the Guard to fire, and was thus guilty of making war upon his people.

The charge was false, but the populace believed it. Louis and his family were taken prisoners and finally executed.

Thus the Lion of Lucerne marks not only the massacre of the Swiss Guard, and their loyalty to the Bourbons, but marks an important epoch in world-history—the ending of the reign of Kings of France, and the beginning of the reign of the people of France.

That Reign of the People was to have several interruptions. "The Man of Destiny" was to rule, with almost absolute sway, for twenty years, and after him another Bourbon or two were to play King on the soil of France, but the work that was begun on that famous Tenth of August, 1792, was to receive no serious check, no permanent set-back.

The Dawn of Liberty in France

That volley from the Swiss Guard inaugurated the liberty of France. Out of the blood of the ragged martyrs that fell in front of the Tuileries was to arise the French Republic.

The American tourist who stands before the "Lion of Lucerne" must find his breast the theatre of conflicting emotions. To be sure, he cannot deny his admiration to the brave men who, in obedience to orders, died in defence of the palace, but in his heart he cannot help feeling that though bravery is always bravery, sometimes men are very brave in a bad cause. Surely the men memorialized by the "Lion of Lucerne" were on the wrong side of the fight.

The Swiss Guard were indeed brave—the Swiss are invariably brave—but they were defending an ancient and atrocious wrong.

The Swiss Guard was composed of mercenaries—men hired to fight for a cause in which they had no heart, while the men they shot down were patriots struggling for right and justice against the arrogant machine which had for centuries kept their country in slavery and in misery.

And so the "Lion of Lucerne" may be made to serve a double purpose. When told by the guide that it is the memorial of the heroism of the Swiss Guard, the tourist may well reply:

"Yes, and of the immortality of the cause that is just."

The Lion represents the liberty that is beloved by the universal human heart. While the noble animal seems to be dying, in reality he is not. In what seem to be his mortal throes, he will gather new strength, and live again as gloriously as ever, just as liberty, even when it seems to be breathing its last breath, is only resting for the final recovery of its power and glory.

The Convention of the Calling Card

By MARY HUTTON PELL

(Member of the Four Hundred and an authority on all social matters)

So many inquiries have reached me anent cards and their proper usage, that I think it well to devote quite some little space to elucidating, for those who do not keep track of the changes of fashion, just what is accepted to-day as correct, and what has come to be considered old-fashioned.

To begin with, the size, shape and style of cards are slightly different this season. Rather a thin, flexible pasteboard is used, so that a number of cards can be carried at once without undue bulk. A woman's card is almost, if not quite, square, while a man's is fully as long and of but half the depth.

Old English lettering, either shaded or solid, Roman block type, or the old-fashioned script, are all in favor. You simply select one or the other, according to your personal choice. While many of the smartest people in society are using the Old English lettering, there are others, equally smart, who adhere to the old-time script.

MRS. MARY HUTTON PELL.

A married woman never uses her Christian or given name on her card; she always uses her husband's name, and that is spelled out in full. For example: Mrs. John Aloysius Smith is correct, not Mrs. John A. Smith or Mrs. J. A. Smith.

The Correct Widow's Card

Another point here apropos is the question of a widow's card. Since her name is identified with that of her husband, she retains that same card after her widowhood. She is still Mrs. John Aloysius Smith or Mrs. Mary Smith or Mrs. Mary Brown Smith, supposing Brown to have been her maiden name.

The fashion for divorcees is to prefix their married name by that to which they were born, as Mrs. Jones Robinson or Mrs. Mary Jones Robinson, it being understood that Jones is her maiden name.

On the lower right hand corner of a woman's card goes the address, and now it is fashionable to have the residence number spelled out in full, even if two lines have to be used. In the opposite corner is engraved the receiving day, no hours being mentioned, as it is understood that formal visits are received in the afternoon.

A man's card carries his name in full, prefixed by Mr. It is not considered correct for a man to have professional degrees indicated on his calling cards used for social life only. His attainments belong to his professional life.

For example, a civil engineer does not have the letters C. E. engraved on his calling card; nor does a lawyer have LL. B. or LL. M. (whichever college degree he may be entitled to) after his name upon a card intended only for social use.

In fact, the only men who have professional indications upon their cards are clergymen; and they simply use the word Reverend before their full name, this taking the place of Mr. And the clergyman does not add his degrees, either.

Cards for Sons and Daughters

The address on a man's card goes in the lower right hand corner, but he is not expected to have any day at home for receiving his friends.

Where there are daughters in the family who have been presented to society, or who are, to use the current term, "out," their names appear with their mother's on the card during their first seasons. For example:

MRS. JOHN ALOYSIUS SMITH

MISS SMITH

MISS GERALDINE SMITH.

Fridays. 200 Washington Square.

makes a convenient card for the ladies of the family. Or, sometimes one sees it engraved Mrs. John Aloysius Smith, and immediately beneath, The Misses Smith, this form being followed where there are more than two daughters, unmarried in society.

Unmarried girls, of course, have their own cards, independent of those of their parents. The eldest girl claims the title Miss Smith; the younger ones spell the name out in full, as Miss Geraldine Fairfax Smith. The address is always on the card, but unmarried girls are not supposed to have a receiving day independent of that of their mother, so no day is engraved on their cards.

Of course, where an unmarried woman is living alone, or apart from her parents, she is at liberty to receive her friends upon whatever day suits her. That day is then engraved on her card.

Some women in New York society just have one or two days a month for receiving. One often sees First and Third Thursdays or Second Wednesdays, where it is not convenient to receive on one stated day each week.

No "Miss" for School Girls

Where a girl has not yet been presented to society, her card reads with her full name, but without the prefix Miss. It is then understood that she is still in the school room, and that the card is for use merely among her friends of her own age.

Sons of the family old enough to be included in formal invitations have separate cards, counterparts of those of their father, having the name spelled out in full. Where a son has the same name as his father, the word Junior is added; and this is the only abbreviation permitted upon a card, with the exception of those quoted below.

For example: Mr. George Washington Tenniel, Jr.

Where there are a son, a father and a grandfather, all of the same name, the father places 2nd after his name, and the son used 3rd, so that there can be no confusion.

$1,000 Bill Solves Bank Clerk's Puzzle

No other United States bank note is susceptible of division into sums corresponding to his order for the various stamps.

The Manicure Lady

She Laments the Passing of the Old-Style Vaudeville

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

"I WAS to the vaudeville show last night," said the Manicure Lady. "It was fierce."

"Most of the shows in New York just now is pretty bad, I guess," remarked the Head Barber. "The brainy playwrights is dying out fast, the way it looks, and the new crop needs rain or something to freshen it up."

"Playwrights ain't got much to do with vaudeville," said the Manicure Lady, "and you can't blame them for such exhibitions as I seen last night. It was awful, George, awful!

"The first number on the bill was a overture by the Germans that play in the band. They always have to have one of them awful overtures at every vaudeville show. This one was about as good as the worst of 'em, and it didn't break its neck trying to be better.

"The next number was called the Juggling Dingdongs. There was three of them. Two of them was skinny men and the other was a fat lady which wore red tights. They slung some of them Indian clubs around, and then the fat lady stood up against the side of the door and the two skinny gents threw knives all around her shape.

"You musta seen that kind of a act, George. It went through all right, without no slip, but I don't want to see it again. The part of it which the men done was easy enough, but I wouldn't have been in that fat lady's red tights for all the money in the world.

She Was a Very Brave Fat Lady

"I think it takes a awful brave person to do that kind of a stunt. When all the knives was thrown she stepped away from the door, and there was the outline of her form, all marked with the knives. It took a terrible lot of knives. Everybody loves heroes, and the fat lady got a good hand.

"Then there was a girl that came out with two young fellows in a dancing act. The girl was awful. She started singing one of them coon songs that began 'Way Down in Louisiana Where De Cotton Am A'Growing.' All them coon songs have something in about cotton growing or watermelon shining on the vine, or sweet magnolia blooms.

"Anyhow, the girl was out of the picture. She sang two verses of the song and tried to dance, and when she said 'My next imitation will be that of a salmon swimming up stream,' she got the hook. The two kids that danced with her were pretty good, but I'll never forget her to my dying day."

"Why didn't you go home?" asked the Head Barber. "I wouldn't stick for any of that kind of amusement."

"I wanted to see the star sketch on the bill," said the Manicure Lady. "There was a lady star that had lately been in the legitimate, and a gentleman star that hadn't been doing anything nourishing for over a year, and two supes. The supes was just as natural as any I ever seen, but the two stars didn't make any kind of a hit with me.

"After this sketch came another sketch, and then another. One of them was a tragedy, one was a melodrama, and one was a farce, but all of them were sad.

SEND ON ANOTHER BARREL OF KNIVES. THERE'S ONLY ENOUGH TO GO HALF WAY ROUND

It took a terrible lot of knives.

"Vaudeville ain't what it used to be, George. When I was a little girl I used to go and hear them funny German comedians, and them Irish comedians, and I used to laugh myself sick. Two Irishmen used to come out, and one of them would ask the other, 'Who was that I seen you with going down the street last night?' and the other would answer, 'Why, that was my sister,' and the first one would come back, 'Oh, was it? I thought it was a goat.'

"In them days, George, there was some pleasure to be got in going to vaudeville. Now times has changed."

"That was before my time," said the Head Barber.

"What was?"

"When you were a little girl. Don't give me an angry answer, kiddo. Here comes a customer for you."

The Useful and Womanly Art of Training a Man

By KENNETT HARRIS

"An' then Mr. Barlow's got to have a pound o' terbacker, I s'pose," concluded the capable looking woman with the red wool nubia knotted under her chin. She said it rather grudgingly, but her husband's melancholy yellow face brightened.

"The Lafayette mixture, Rufe," he said, pulling his pipe from his pocket. "I reckon I'll take a leetle outen the package right now."

"You jest wait," commanded the woman. "What's that terbacker you sale you had for 40 cents a pound, Rufe? I don't see but what that'll do jest as well."

"Peaches an' Cream," replied the storekeeper. "There's a pipe goes with it."

"I'd rather"—began the man, timidly.

"You'd rather pay less money an' get suthin' that'll smell jest as bad, wouldn't you?" asked the woman, turning briskly upon him.

"Oh, well!" sighed the man. "I reckon it don't matter so tur'ble much which it is, s'long as it's terbacker. I need a new pipe, too."

"Gosh!" ejaculated Sol Baker when the couple had left the store. "It's mighty tough when a feller can't buy his own smokin'!"

"My wife hain't got that fur with me," grinned Parsons. "There's some that's wuss off than me an' Rufe."

Breathes Without Permission.

"'Ty ain't bad off," drawled Washington Hancock. "You fellers is a wastin' pity. He got terbacker anyway an' I watched him a drawin' his breath in an' out stiddy all the time he was in here an' he never ast her wunst if he might."

"It beats time how weak-kneed a feller'll get," remarked the storekeeper. "You'd think a man oughter have some sperrit."

"That's what a feller allus gets when he's tryin' to treat his wife right," said Hancock. "That's the way they uster talk all the time about Link Treweek jest because he started out to let his wife have her way.

"Link married one o' Chris Parmenter's gals. You 'member Chris, don't ye? He was one o' these yer bellerin', cussin' kind around the house. He 'lowed it was a woman's place to do like her husban' told her to do an' no argyment about it. 'Course his gals had a wuss time of it with him than what the old lady had, an' that uster make Link mad when he was sparkin' the gal he married.

"'Never you mind, honey,' he uster say to her. 'When you an' me git married you're a-goin' to have your own way. Nobuddy ain't a-goin' to tell you what you've got to do an' what you ain't got to do.'

"'Honest?' she says.

Made a Lot of Rash Promises

"'Hope to die if you don't,' says Link. 'I've seen more'n ernuff o' these fellers like your daddy that's all the time hollerin' around an' bossing every livin' thing. You won't have none o' that trouble with me.'

"He didn't make no bones o' tellin' that to everybody. He 'lowed it was a woman's place to boss her husband if she wanted to. 'I like to have 'em boss me,' he says. 'It tickles me 'most to death. I don't take nothin' from no man,' he says. 'I kin whip any man in Atchison County if I'm put to it, but a woman's got a right to have her own way.'

"Harvey Klppax kinder took that as personal an' undertook to show Link he was one feller in Atchison that he couldn't whip an' they had it rough 'n' tumble, but Link showed him that he wusn't.

"Fin'ly Link and the girl got married an' the first thing Link 'lowed that the swill pail might jest as well set inside o' the Summer kitchen as out of it. Beulah—her name was Beulah, now I come to think of it—Beulah 'lowed it brought the flies into the house an' she wanted it outside.

"'It's more trouble for ye, honey,' says Link. 'You've got to take more steps, an' I wanted to save you them extry steps.'

"'I thought you said you wus goin' to let me have my way,' she says.

"'So I am,' says Link, 'but I want you to keep that there pail inside.'

Link Put the Shelf Up, Anyway

Nex' thing she didn't want Link to put up a shelf over the stove where he thought it would be right handy for her.

"'Shucks!' says Link. 'If you've got this shelf you can keep your saltbox an' the flour dredger an' the pot lids on it an' you'll do your cookin' twicet as easy.'

"'But it spiles the look o' the wall, Link,' she says.

"'That's all poppycock,' says Link. 'It's a-goin' to look all right. You'll soon get used to it an' you'll like it then. I'm aimin' to make things easy for you.'

"'You said you was goin' to let me have my own way,' says Beulah, half cryin'.

"'Sho! You kin have anything you want,' says Link. 'O' course, you can. But I'm jest goin' to put up this here shelf, becus I know it's what you need.'

"Well, there wus one or two other things like that in the next few days, an' Beulah took it to heart, though she didn't let on. Fin'ly Link got to goin' in the settin' room and settin' in the best rocker an' mussin' up the tidies. That wus about a week after they was married.

"One mornin she went into the settin' room with a broom to brush up an' there wus Link loppin' around. He'd came in from the barnyard the front way, an' there wus proof of it on the carpet.

"'Link,' says Beulah, 'didn't you say afore we wus married that I wus to have my own way?'

"'Cert'nly,' says Link. 'I mean it, too.'

"'Then won't you go set in the kitchen an' keep out o' here like I ast you to?' she says.

Finally Link Came to Terms

"'Why, there ain't no sense in that, Beulah,' says Link, stiffenin' up a little. 'I'd only be in your way in the kitchen an'——'

"Right there Beulah took him on the side o' the head with the broom an' knocked him off the chair. Then, afore he could get up, she jabbed the straws into his face an' began poundin' him over the head. He got into the kitchen an' she right after him, hittin' right an' left, he out o' the door an' she after him into the yard until he got into the barn an' shut the door.

"'Link Treweek,' she hollers through the crack, 'am I a-goin' to have my way or not?'

"'Honey,' says Link, 'I told you that you wus an' I mean it. You have things the way you want 'em.'

"'All right, then,' says Beulah. 'You [illegible] an' set that swill pail outside [illegible] woodpile for kindlin'. I'll have my way about them things to start with.'

"An' she had her own way ever sence," continued Hancock.

TO-DAY'S COMPLETE SHORT STORY

His Indefinite Stay

"GOOD evening, Mr. Monroe," the girl said, cordially. "When did you get back from Chicago?"

"This afternoon," said the young man. "Three hours late. Thought I was never going to get here. We were delayed at every station."

"Wasn't it rather sudden, your coming back? I thought you were to be away all Winter."

"So did I."

"Will you be in New York long?"

"That depends," he said. "If things go wrong I shall take the 11:35 back to-night. If not—if it were possible that they would go well with me—I should stay over Sunday."

"Oh, you business men!" she laughed. "How hard you work to make the women believe you are wearing yourselves out!"

"It isn't business, for once. I came away when I received a letter from one of my best friends."

"Oh, I'm so sorry. It must be dreadful to get bad news in a letter. I hope none of your family is ill."

"My family are all abroad. It was about the worst news I could get and the worst of it is I can't help myself. It's too late."

"Sometimes it happens that way," she said, sympathetically. "You know how it was when the Thurbers were wrecked. If Minnie had remembered to cable they wouldn't have taken that steamer, and would have escaped. But she forgot."

"Yes," he said, absently. "I suppose so."

"We've been having great fun planning our Winter doings lately," she went on. "It seemed queer not to have you here to help us."

"You miss me?"

"They all do. I know Louise said it seemed as if we'd have to give up the german because you weren't here."

"What did you say?"

"I said I thought Mr. Fuller could do it."

"Oh! Who's this Fuller?"

"He's the cousin of the Osbornes. He came from Detroit and is a great addition to our circle. Why, he's the most gifted man I ever saw. Musical, artistic and literary and the best organizer I know."

"That sort of a man never amounts to anything. Jack of all trades and master of none."

"Oh, no, indeed. He's made a real success of his business, too. I wish you could meet him. I know you'd like him. He's taken some splendid pictures of the crowd."

"If there's anything I hate it's a man who goes around snapping people in awkward positions and uncomfortable places [illegible]."

"I don't think it's very kind of you to talk that way."

"What way?"

"You know perfectly well."

"Oh, come now. I'll be good. I'm so worried I don't realize what I say. I suppose. Please forgive me."

"I'm sorry you're worried," she said, softening. "Was the letter as bad as that?"

"It was bad enough to bring me back here when I got it and now I find it was so very bad that it will send me away again to-night."

"How mysterious! It sounds like a novel!"

"No, no; I don't mean that. Bob's letter bowled me over so completely that I was half crazy. I never knew how I cared before. And now it's too late. I was awfully stupid not to realize it, but a man gets so used to girls he forgets it's dangerous. You know."

"Yes, of course. Sort of hardened. Immune in a way."

"Now you're making fun of me. Honest, I don't mean anything like that. I am feeling far from conceited and everything I say you twist to sound as if I were. I'm very humble."

"Poor man! I should think you'd be so accustomed to girls you wouldn't mind me."

"Don't!"

"Don't you want to be teased?"

"Not when I'm in dead earnest. It hurts."

"Mr. Fuller says a man is never in dead earnest when he makes a confidante of a girl."

"Mr. Fuller doesn't know what he is talking about. I'm in earnest and you've got to listen to me."

"Really?"

"Yes, really. I suppose your millionaire friend would say a man is never cross when he's in love, wouldn't he?"

"My what?"

"Your millionaire friend."

"Who?"

"This brilliant Fuller."

"He isn't a millionaire."

"Oh, yes, he is. He's everything. Bob praised him, too."

"The man who wrote you? What did he say about Mr. Fuller?"

"The whole letter was about him."

"I hope nothing's wrong. What's the trouble?"

"I didn't mean to make you anxious. I forgot for the moment. It was on Fuller's account I came East."

"I thought you said you didn't know him."

"I don't and I don't want to, either."

"What has he done?"

"As if you didn't know! I suppose that's the woman of it."

"I can't very well act like a man I don't understand."

"Bob wrote me of your engagement, of course."

"My engagement?"

"Yes, to Fuller. He said it wasn't announced, but that it didn't have to be. It flashed on me all of a sudden what an idiot I was, and I took the next train."

"Why?"

"Well, there's a melancholy satisfaction in telling how one feels, even if it is too late. Besides, there was a chance that I'd want to stay over Sunday."

"There is."

"There is what?"

"A chance."

"Then you're not—you are——"

"Not—yes. Anyhow, I'd like to have you stay over Sunday."

MORSE IN CELL PLANS FIGHT TO OBTAIN BAIL

Issues Hurry Call to Lawyers and Hold Early Morning Conference.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Pending the decision of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals as to whether or not Charles W. Morse shall be admitted to bail, he to-day summoned a conference of his lawyers in the Tombs, and it is understood that he set about trying to get ready a very large bond, so confident is he of the outcome of the court's decision.

Morse was very irritable to-day. He was greatly disappointed that he had not been admitted to bail yesterday, and before he went to bed in his cell he sent word to his lawyers that he wanted to see them.

That his summons was imperative was shown by the fact that Lawyers Littlefield and Walker of his counsel both called at the Tombs shortly after 8 a. m.

Each of the lawyers saw Morse alone. He had long talks with each of them, and then they left the prison. Morse was at breakfast when they arrived and talked to them as he ate his eggs and toast and drank his coffee.

Charles W. Morse, who recently boasted that he was worth $20,000,000, now swears that he is a pauper.

GREENOUGH WILL CASE IS SETTLED

It was announced in the Supreme Court to-day that the contest on the will of Joseph F. Greenough had been settled and that Judge Loring had dismissed the appeals of the two contestants, who each claimed to be widow of the testator.

Greenough, at his death, left an estate estimated at $1,300,000. Three women put in an appearance, each claiming to be his legal widow. The Probate Court decided in favor of Martha Higgins Greenough, his first wife. She is an aunt of Suzanne Adams, the actress, and the Probate Court decided that she should receive the estate.

One of the contestants was Mary Kerekas, a foreign noblewoman, who has a son, Joseph M. Greenough.

It is understood that by the settlement all three widows and Joseph M. Greenough will have a share in the estate.

TREE CLIMBING MOTH CONTEST

City Forester George Buckman had sixty applications for jobs in the gypsy moth extermination department, and held a tree climbing contest to give every man a fair show. Only twelve men qualified by this test. He has divided his moth chasers into three squads.

NEURALGIA AND NERVOUS HEADACHE

A Cure at Lynn Showing the Wonderful Effect of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in These Troubles.

In cases of nervousness, as neuralgia, nervous debility and even partial paralysis and locomotor ataxia, the logical treatment is through the blood, curing by removing the cause of the disease. This is the mission of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They act directly on the blood, purifying it and making new blood. They are for this reason also an invaluable remedy in diseases arising from bad or deficient blood, as rheumatism, anemia, after-effects of the grip and fevers. The pills are guaranteed to be free from opiates or any harmful drug and cannot injure the most delicate system.

The case of Miss Louise Stanley, of No. 147 Broad street, Lynn, Mass., shows the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as they cured her after years of suffering. She says:

"I had nervous headaches for ten years and would be confined to bed for days and could not hold my head up. Many times when I got up in the morning my head would ache so severely that I would have to go back to bed. If I tried to walk around I would faint away.

"In 1907 I was also afflicted with neuralgia in the back of my head and down my right shoulder. For nearly two months I could hardly raise my right arm. The pains were so severe some times that I collapsed entirely.

"I was treated by several physicians but they gave me no help. A friend gave me a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I started to use them. I had taken them only a short time before I noticed that the pains in my head and neck had stopped. Since taking the pills I have had no more headaches and the neuralgia has left me. I work every day and feel better than I have for years."

Nervous headaches, as well as neuralgia, are caused by lack of nutrition—the nerves are starved. The only way to feed the nerves is through the blood and it is in this way that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have accomplished so many remarkable cures.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes, $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Double Legal Stamps will be given with every purchase mornings until o'clock noon at Wolf's, "My Clothier," corner Hanover and Portland streets. Single stamps thereafter.

Dorchester Sportsmen; Game They Bagged in Maine Woods

DORCHESTER HUNTERS TELL OF MAINE TRIP

Six members of the Colonial Club in Dorchester gave a venison dinner last night in the dining room of the club house to fellow members. The six were Dr. E. E. House, Hon. J. F. Cusick, Walter Cusick, George Lapham, Thomas Breen and Charles Corliss.

They had been on a hunting trip in the Maine wilds where they shot twelve deer, each of the party having the good fortune to kill two. They entered the woods on October 10 and had for guides, Frank M. and Hugh McManus, Jock Campbell and the Swett brothers. The hunting lasted a fortnight and the game was sought near Masardis, Aroostook County.

The dining room in the clubhouse where the hunters and their friends banqueted last evening was tastefully decorated and in a manner suggestive of wildwood life. There were [illegible] and moose heads displayed and spruce, hemlock, birch and cedar to give a green tone to the scheme. Finely cooked venison was served in all styles.

Those who dined with the six hunters were A. Guptill, Clarence House, J. F. Worcester, J. E. Winslow, E. W. Law, W. E. Leavitt, John Morton, P. G. Boltser, George Richardson, H. H. Jacobs, C. F. Mains, N. Kinnicutt, T. M. Vinson, E. N. Cook, James Patterson, E. Van Evera, Harry Pierce and T. C. Bachelder.

Many stories were told by the sportsmen who had killed the deer and all who sat at the table went home after one of the most enjoyable evenings they had ever spent.

FUMES OF GAS FATAL; POLICE INVESTIGATE

The police are investigating to-day the death from gas of John O'Connor at his boarding house, No. [illegible] Eustis street, Roxbury. As Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Dennehy, who occupy the house and had O'Connor as a lodger, found his room door partly open early to-day, when he was discovered to be dead, it is thought that he came to his fate through an accident.

Because of the fact that a policeman who was sent to the Dennehy house about 6:30 this morning was not admitted, he being in plain clothes, a report was sent out that the man died under suspicious circumstances. Sergeant Chandler of the Dudley Street Police Station soon ascertained the facts, however.

O'Connor was a blacksmith's helper. He was employed at the Bartlett street car shops of the Boston Elevated. He had boarded with the Dennehys but four or five months. Mrs. Dennehy said she had heard that he had a wife and child living in Cambridge. Medical Examiner MacDonald will view the body.

WAR AGAINST GOMPERS ON AT DENVER TO-DAY

DENVER, Col., Nov. 10.—To-day the long-heralded revolt against President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, based upon his support of William J. Bryan for President, starts at the session of that body's annual convention. A startling resolution, in regard to which much secrecy has been maintained, comes up for discussion, and those on the inside predict that it will signify the entrance of the federation into politics.

The Federation opened to-day's session of its annual convention by listening to the report of the executive council. The appointment of the usual committees was next in order.

The president then announced that the convention was open for business and the reception of resolutions.

According to the constitution, resolutions can be introduced from the floor up to the close of the session on Thursday afternoon. All these resolutions will be sent to the committee on resolutions and this committee will report them to the convention from time to time during the sessions.

WOMAN'S ERROR CAUSED DEATH

Medical Examiner J. Winthrop Spooner of Hingham announced to-day that he has satisfied himself that the death of Mrs. Elsie Davis, twenty-two years old, of Valley Beach avenue, Nantasket, was due to poison taken by her by mistake. No autopsy will be held. She died at 1 p. m. yesterday afternoon, having taken what she thought to be a headache powder. Physicians were sent for, but none could reach the house before the woman died.

Mrs. Davis lived with her father, Fred W. Burr. Her husband is in a sanitarium. The young woman has been in excellent spirits, and there is no doubt expressed by her parents but that she died as the result of an accident.

HEARING ON NEW HAVEN'S DEMURRER

In the Supreme Court to-day before Judge Loring there was a hearing on a demurrer filed by the New York, New Haven & Hartford road as a result of the fight of Attorney-General Malone to prevent the New Haven road from controlling, in violation of the Massachusetts laws, the stock of the Boston & Maine Railroad.

Colonel Benton, appearing for the New Haven road, declared that the Attorney-General should set out the facts on which the State claims the New Haven road exceeded its franchise powers. The New Haven also denies the right of the Massachusetts courts to deal with the question. Judge Loring declared that the contention of the road that the Massachusetts courts could not deal with the question, was unwarranted, in his opinion. The State having given the charter to the New Haven and the Boston & Maine roads, it could deal with it according to Massachusetts laws.

Judge Loring intimated that the demurrer on that ground was not well taken.

The case went over for one week to permit more cases to be cited.

HUB SINGERS IN FEAST OF OLD BALLADS

Lovers of English, Scottish and Irish songs are preparing to attend the grand ballad concert which is to be given to-morrow evening in Tremont Temple by some of Boston's best known singers and musicians. The concert is being held under the management of Louis H. Ross.

An admirable program has been prepared. The Eliot Quartet of Boston, consisting of Miss Josephine Knight, soprano; Miss Adelaide Griggs, contralto; John E. Daniels, tenor, and Leverett B. Merrill, bass, will sing three numbers.

The other musical artists who are to take part during the evening's entertainment are Miss Mary Ogilvie, Scottish soprano; Joseph Judge, a well known Irish tenor; Charles K. North, flutist; C. F. Porter, cellist; Claude Fisher, violinist; Frank Donahoe, organist; Carl Lamson and James L. Gilbert, pianists.

MISS ELKINS TO OWN TITLE

LONDON, Nov. 10.—The Daily Express asserts that the wedding of the Duke of the Abruzzi and Miss Katherine Elkins will take place in Rome or Turin.

The Express claims to have authority to state that the King and members of the royal family wish the marriage to be solemnized in Italy, with state ceremonies, so that the nation may participate, as it is [illegible] the Italian people that the [illegible] will spend her life.

Difficulties arose through Senator Elkins's refusal to sanction a morganatic marriage and because of the opposition of the Queen Mother, who had other matrimonial views for the Duke.

The King's consent, however, has been obtained, and the bride will be fully recognized as a royal Princess. Queen Helena has been a strong supporter of Miss Elkins throughout.

EXTERNAL REMEDY FOR ECZEMA

Why Salves Fail While a Simple Liquid Has Accomplished Thousands of Cures.

It is now thoroughly established among the best medical authorities that eczema is purely a skin disease, due to a germ, and curable only through the skin. It is not a blood disease at all; in fact, thousands of people suffer with skin disease and are perfectly healthy otherwise, and therefore prove they have no diseased blood.

Smeary salves cannot reach the germs because they do not penetrate the skin. The only way to reach the germs is by means of a penetrating liquid.

Such a liquid can be obtained by simply mixing ordinary oil of wintergreen with thymol, glycerine and other healing agents. This compound known as D. D. D. Prescription stops the itch instantly—and the cures all appear to be permanent. In fact, it took thousands of cures, case after case, before the best scientific authorities were convinced of the absolute merit of this remedy. The effect of D. D. D. Prescription in numbing the itching eczema germs is seen within one minute after the first application. We especially recommend D. D. D. Soap in connection with this treatment. PANICKY FAMILIES FLEE FROM FLAMES

A fire that broke out in the basement of the three-story wooden tenement house at No. [illegible] Boston street, South Boston, at 11 o'clock last night caused a panic among the tenants and neighbors. Men, women and children occupying the house swarmed into the street, some clad in their night clothing. The building is owned by Helen [illegible]. The damage will not exceed $25. The cause of the fire was spontaneous combustion.

QUICK DELIVERY OF SIEGEL FURS

Crisp and frosty mornings have caused hundreds of people to get their furs where they can don them when the weather turns a lot more wintry than it has been, and those who have had their furs stored by the Henry Siegel Company are wondering at the dispatch with which they got them.

"It only took them ten minutes to get my coat out of their cold storage," said one man to-day to a friend. "I went there and handed in the order for my coat and was turning away expecting to go to-morrow or a day or so later for it when they told me to wait ten minutes and I would get it then."

From four days to ten minutes is the reduction in the time required to get furs out of storage at the Henry Siegel department store and all because the cold storage system is in the same building and so easily accessible.

NOTED ARTIST REGAINS SIGHT; NOW SCIENTIST

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Howard Chandler Christie, the artist, is about to become a Christian Scientist. He is a probationer in the faith now, and expects within a few weeks to become a regular member of one of the churches.

Christie said last evening, seated in his apartment on Riverside Drive and One Hundred and Thirty-sixth street: "I certainly shall become a member as soon as they accept me.

"Late last March," he continued, "I was almost blind. For a year and a half my sight had been growing worse, and I hadn't done a bit of work. At that time I couldn't even read the headlines in a newspaper. To walk about my room I was obliged to grope along the walls. My wife, a Christian Scientist, suggested that one of their practitioners give me a treatment. Though I had always laughed at that sort of thing, I took the treatment to please her.

"Within twenty minutes I could see better and my nerves were entirely calmed.

"Three weeks later I had my last treatment, and was completely cured."

Strong, her husband, in her suit against the Carver Cotton Gin Company for royalties on a patent perfected by her husband.

How to Bake Beans

We have no secrets, madam. We are going to tell how you—if you had the facilities—could bake Pork and Beans exactly as good as Van Camp's.

Get the choicest Michigan beans, picked over by hand. Get only the whitest, the plumpest, the fullest-grown. Have them all of one size.

You will need to pay from six to eight times what some beans would cost, but they're worth it.

Soak the beans over night, then parboil them.

Now comes the impossible. The beans must be baked in live steam, and you lack it. That steam must be super-heated to 245 degrees.

Dry heat won't do. You can't supply enough dry heat without burning the beans to a crisp.

Then the beans must be baked in small parcels—we bake in the cans. That's so the full heat of the oven can attack every particle. Otherwise the beans will not be digestible. They will ferment and form gas, as do your home-baked beans now.

Bake the tomato sauce with the beans—bake it into them. That's how we get our delicious blend.

When the beans are baked until they are mealy, surround the can with cold water. That stops the baking instantly, and sets the blend and savor.

Then you will have beans that are wholly digestible. All beans will be baked alike, yet not a skin will be broken. The beans will be nutty because they are whole.

Then the tomato sauce—that's impossible for you. It must be made from whole, vine-ripened tomatoes, picked when the juice fairly sparkles.

When you buy the sauce, you rarely know what you are getting. If it is made from tomatoes picked green, it lacks zest. If made of scraps from a canning factory, it lacks richness.

Some tomato sauce is sold ready-made for exactly one-fifth what we spend to make ours.

Our point is this: It isn't your fault that home-baked beans are mushy and broken—crisped on the top and half-baked in the middle. That they are neither nutty nor mealy—nor even digestible. That they always ferment and form gas. It's simply your lack of facilities.

Van Camp's BAKED WITH TOMATO SAUCE
PORK AND BEANS

The best way is let us cook them for you. We have all the facilities. Let us furnish the meals—fresh and savory—ready for instant serving.

Think how unwise it is to bake your own beans when you can get Van Camp's. Here is Nature's choicest food—84 per cent nutriment. More food value than meat at a third the cost. A food you should serve at least three times a week.

Think what you are missing, and what your people are missing, when you spoil such a dish as that.

Leave the choice to your people. Ask them which beans they want. And be glad of their choice. For, if they like Van Camp's, see the bother you save, And see what you save on your meat bills.

Three sizes: 10, 15 and 20 cents per can.

RALPH GLAZE IS SOLD TO INDIANAPOLIS CLUB

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—Ralph Glaze and Chester Chadbourne have been sold by President John I. Taylor of the Red Sox to the Indianapolis club subject to waivers by the other American League teams.

There is a row over the Red Sox securing training grounds at Hot Springs. Two different parties claim ownership of the field.

War among the minor baseball leagues was presaged when the magnates of the American Association and the Eastern League went into conference to consider a way to reduce the Pacific League, the Western League and the Southern League to Class "B" organizations.

According to the constitution of the National Association when the total population of the cities comprising a league totals 1,000,000 it becomes a "class A." The charge is now made that the cities of the Southern, the Western and the Pacific Coast League do not aggregate that number. The fight to reduce them to class "B" that the Association and the Eastern may draft from them will be made to-day.

Many prominent baseball men from all parts of the country were at the annex to-day. President John I. Taylor of the Boston Americans and Fred Lake, manager of the Red Sox, were among those who arrived early. President Taylor declared that there would be no changes in the make-up of the Red Sox next year.

"I think I have a winning team right now," declared Taylor. "I'm not looking for new players and I haven't any men that I want to sell. I'm standing pat right now. I think the Red Sox will be in the fight all the way next year and I am sure that Manager Lake will be able to bring the Boston outfit right up to the top of the American League heap."

This will be a big day for the minor league magnates. President Harry Pulliam of the National League, Ban B. Johnson, president of the American League, and Garry Herrman, president of the Cincinnati club, comprising the National Commission, will meet. Among the important complications that will come before the committee will be the alleged scalping of tickets in Chicago during the world's championship series between the Cubs and Detroit Tigers.

They will also determine whether the members of the Chicago American league team who conducted a barnstorming tour and played against "Jimmy" Callahan's Logan Squares shall be fined $200 or not.

HARVARD TEAM WILL RESUME WORK TO-DAY

This afternoon the Harvard football squad will get down to real work in preparation for the Dartmouth game Saturday.

All the regular players who played in the Indian game Saturday were excused from practice yesterday and enjoyed a day of complete rest, which was certainly earned. The work of the day consisted of a signal drill for the substitutes, which lasted only a little over an hour. The entire team came through the game without injuries, but the strain of the game was severe and a rest the only remedy.

The Harvard lineup for the last two games seems to be decided upon. [illegible] good work in the Indian game makes him practically sure of holding down Burr's position of left end. He is big and heavy and demonstrated that he had the speed. He also overcame his chief defect, which has been a tendency to play too back. The other doubtful positions of fullback and left end seem also to be pretty well settled.

Ver Wiebe again demonstrated his strength for the position of fullback. He has tremendous power, and although not given the ball very often himself, he was a power at pulling the other runners through the line.

In view of the tremendous demand for tickets to the Dartmouth game, the consent of the overseers has been obtained to the erection of some additional wooden stands in the Stadium. These stands have always been built in the past, but a fear of the possibility of a fire starting among them has rendered the authorities at Harvard reluctant to put them up this year. Timber was being carried to the field yesterday to build the new seats. It is thought that about 10,000 extra seats will be built.

GREEN WILL BE FIT FOR HARVARD

HANOVER, Nov. 10.—All the Dartmouth players who were in the Princeton game were given a rest yesterday. They were all on the field and will be O. K. for the tussle with Harvard.

John B. Glaze, captain of the victorious Dartmouth team last year, has arrived in town. Glaze, who has been coaching Exeter all year, will probably devote the greater part of his attention to the backs. Harry McDevitt '07, of Brighton, quarterback in '06, was on the field helping Dr. O'Connor. Bill Randall '96 and Fred Jennings, 1900, will be on hand this week. Jennings is expected to-day and Randall on Wednesday.

FAST GAME EXPECTED.

A good game is looked for to-morrow when the Boston College eleven will play the Massachusetts College of Osteopathy at the Locust street grounds, South Boston.

FOOTBALL GAMES WANTED.

The Eaton Prep. School are without a game for Thanksgiving; would like to hear from some 120-pound team. Fred Harty, 65 Franklin street, Boston.

The Orents would like to arrange games during this month with 120-pound teams. William [illegible], care of [illegible] & Whitman, Pemberton building, Boston.

The Newman A. A. desires games with strong teams. Open dates through November. Will give [illegible] expenses for 15 men. W. F. Corcoran, 47 [illegible] street, South Boston.

The Roxbury Athletics would like to hear from the fastest teams in the State averaging 130-140 pounds for Saturdays in November. Would prefer home games. Full expenses for 15 men. J. Paul Carty, 17 Gardener avenue, Roxbury.

BASEBALL NEWS AND NOTES

Lee Tannehill will quit Comiskey if he can secure the South Bend club franchise in the Central League.

Mike Donlin continues to bat in the .300 class as an actor, and scores a few clean hits every evening.

Rube Waddell has forsaken the East. Rube says St. Louis is good enough for him, and he intends to spend his winter there.

Ed Walsh is still in Chicago and gives State street a treat every evening by strolling over the course a couple of times.

We regret that Hans Wagner couldn't have made a couple of [illegible] and made a cleaning up all around in the National League.

Charley Murphy will [illegible] Chance, and it's a good bet he will come across with an increase, although he has Chance signed up.

It is beginning to look as if Terre Haute intended celebrating all Winter in honor of the hero, Mordecai Brown, of the Cubs.

The White Sox have drafted First Baseman Tannant of the Decatur team of the Three I League. Jiggs Donahue, kindly take notice.

Coast critics have nothing but praise for Perrine, who will be a member of the American League staff of umpires next year.

Fred Merkle won a game in the eleventh for the barnstorming Giants the other day with a clean single. It is needless to remark that Fred touched first.

Evidently Christy Mathewson's speech-making through New York State in behalf of Bryan wasn't nearly as effective as his pitching, judging from results.

Fred Clarke is a generous fellow for a manager. He admits that the Pirates would have had a hard time to finish in the first division had it not been for Wagner.

McAleer is ready to trade his star player, Stone, to any club offering good inducements. McIntyre is said to be the man favored in an exchange.

Wild Bill Donovan is being featured by the rube teams throughout Michigan as an umpire. Perhaps the experience will keep Bill off the suspended list next year.

Chicago players, as usual, are supposed to possess more than the average amount of gray matter. If such be the case there is no reason for the Yankees being a tailender next year. They have six cultured gentlemen under contract.

The latest is that Ban Johnson [illegible] Oscar Noyes of the Washington club and Manager Cantillon in Chicago the other day. Noyes came to Chicago to find out whether he had a team or not and Cantillon acted as bodyguard when he called on Ban. The meeting ended in a love feast.

BOXING BITS OF NEWS

For the last four weeks Freddie Corbett has been resting and is in good shape for his fight with Young Corbett at Philadelphia next Friday night at the State Club. The Kid may go well for six rounds yet. The big money the local boys were grabbing off caused Corbett to get back into the game. He might do, but the lightweights around now are pretty tough in the short fights, and he has had a rocky road before him.

Boxing in Chicago may be resumed after January 1. State's Attorney-elect John Wayman, who is not opposed to boxing, takes office on December 1, and then the clubs on the outskirts will open for a feeler. If they are successful the big clubs in Chicago proper will take a chance. Six-round, no-decision bouts are what the promoters are hoping will be permitted.

Jimmy Barry will be matched to meet Al Kaufman before Jeff's club in a twenty-five-round bout the end of this month.

An attempt will be made to open the boxing game at Fort Wayne, Ind., on Thanksgiving day. Jimmy Gardner and Jim Pendergast have been engaged for the opening show.

Jim Jeffries and Charley Eyton have been mentioned as referees for the Kelly-Papke bout at Los Angeles on December 15. Kelly refuses to consider Eyton, for the latter is accused of giving him a raw deal when he fought Jack Sullivan.

When Packy McFarland meets Dick Hyland the middle of December at Denver he will meet the toughest man yet. Packy has cleaned up about all the second raters and will now have to fight the tough ones to get the money. He may win, but he will have to go some.

Jack Johnson and his manager, Sam Fitzpatrick, arrived in Sydney last Monday, and all arrangements for their fight will be known here any day.

Joe Thomas, the California heavyweight, will be quite a card in the East if he succeeds in besting Sailor Burke when they meet November 18. Already he has had offers of bouts with Jack Blackburn and Willie Lewis. The latter match is wanted by a club in Rochester and would be twelve rounds.

Jimmy Gardner says no white man should box a negro, and, if defeated, deserves no sympathy at all. The Lowell man says he is through with the blacks for all time, his experience with Kid Whitney out on the Pacific coast, when he mashed both hands on the colored man's head, being enough for him.

Packy McFarland is to be a referee in Philadelphia, where no decisions are announced. He has been selected to act as third man in the ring when Harry Baker and Charley Griffin, the Australian boxer, hook up.

It looks as if Wolgast didn't show much sagacity in demanding a [illegible] boxing match with Abe Attell at a weight that suited the Milwaukee man, 122 pounds at 6 o'clock. [illegible] a natural fighter, at 130 pounds. And the way Attell can go some [illegible] it looks as if Wolgast had quite a battle on his hands.

[illegible], manager for Frank Conley, the Kenosha fighter, posted a forfeit of $500 to bind a challenge from Conley to Ad Wolgast. Conley is willing to fight at 122 pounds. Wolgast refused to accept the former challenge, declaring that he did not want any more of the Kenosha Italian's game.

Lakey [illegible], manager for Cyclone Thompson, in his anxiety to pull off a match between Johnny and Battling Nelson has made an offer to turn over his end of the purse, win, lose or draw, to charity if the Dane will sign within the next seven days to meet Thompson in a fight of any distance at any date in the near future.

WANT BASKETBALL GAMES.

The Madison A. C. of Charlestown would like to arrange games with fast 125-pound teams at home on Friday evenings. Fred H. Fitzgerald, 95 Milk street, Boston.

The Walnut A. C. of Charlestown want to arrange games with 125-pound teams. Open dates December 4, 11, 18. J. F. Kelley, 11 Concord street, Charlestown.

The Fort Banks team desire games with strong teams. Sergeant Thornton, manager.

The North End Union basket ball teams have organized and are anxious to arrange games with the fastest teams in the state. Home games are desired for Tuesday evenings. Israel Ruby, 20 [illegible] street.

The [illegible] Five of Framingham are desirous of arranging games away from home with fast semi-professional teams. Reasonable guarantee expected. J. J. Neal, 165 Oliver street, Boston, Mass.

WESTERGARD HURT.

Jesse Westergard, the Western heavyweight wrestler, who was to have met John Perelli at the Columbia to-morrow night, dislocated his shoulder at Montreal and was obliged to call off all engagements. Perelli's opponent will be Jack Sibard, the "Fighting Canuck.

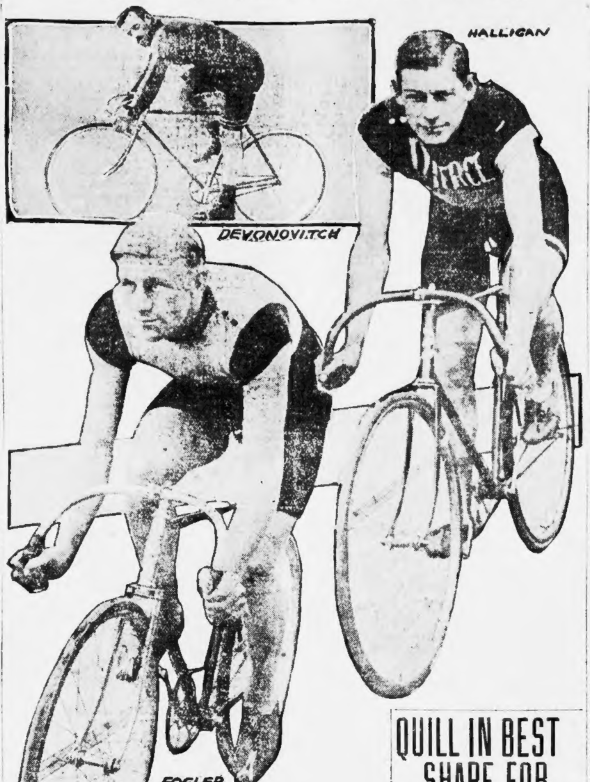
RUSSIAN AND COWBOY BIKERS WILL TEAM IN NEXT WEEK'S RACE.



TWELVE TEAMS WILL START IN BIG BIKE RACE HERE

Twelve of the fastest bike teams in the world will start on their first big six-day race of the year at the Park Square Coliseum next Monday noon.

The list consists of the leading riders in this country and Europe, while Australia will also be on deck, and it will be a galaxy of wheel stars who will make it the most gruelling test of speed ever seen on the indoor track.

The riders will race ten hours, from 12:30 p. m. to 10:30 p. m., each day, keeping it up for the whole week, and only those who can stand the grind will be in the final competition for honors.

The new lap track, which will be the fastest path of the kind ever constructed, will allow the men to travel at express speed with the steep banked corners.

The teams are paired up so evenly that they appear on paper as if they would develop one of the most sensational long distance races in history, and they look strong enough to last up to the very end of the exhausting event. There is likely to be several of the teams fighting it out for the final prizes.

The winner last year was Floyd Krebs, teamed up with Hugh MacLean, and he will have as partner on this occasion Rupprecht, another Dutchman, who has been doing some exceptional work this Summer.

The Danish team, consisting of Anderson and Iver Lawson, will come in for a lot of attention. Lawson is one of the finest sprinters in the game and Anderson is pretty close up to the best, as he proved last Winter in the Hub. Jimmy Moran, the Chelsea milkman, has Floyd McFarland, the veteran of the game, who is a plugger and, tied up with Moran, should make this pair formidable. Eddie Root, the blonde headed boy, will team with Elmer Collins, the Lynn flyer, and they are dangerous. Joe Fogler and Clarke, the Australian, who has been beating everything at Vailsburg this Summer, including champion Kramer, is the couplet to watch and sure to be in the final counting.

Devonvitch, the Russian, and Halligan, the Cowboy, will join forces. The former is the only rider on the circuit who wears a full beard and can easily be picked out by his adornment. The other teams are John and Menus Bedell, the New Yorkers; Cameron and Hill, the best in the amateur ranks, who were recently declared professionals; Vanoni and Williams; Hollister and DeMar, the Mormons; Bargett and Wily, Walter and Palmer, from Australia.

The indoor track will be opened to the public on Saturday night with a fifteen-mile motor paced race between Jimmy Moran and Elmer Collins and a card of professional and amateur races.

SHRUBB HAS NOT HEARD FROM INDIAN

"I am ready to race Longboat at any time, but I want the match to be for a series of three races," said Al Shrubb, the English professional runner, in the BOSTON AMERICAN office yesterday.

"The distances I would name are ten, fifteen and twenty miles. In that I am conceding the Indian the best of it, as the longer the race he claims to be better. He can make one of the races twenty-five miles if he would prefer.

"I would like one of the races out doors, as I think it would get better results and a far truer test of our abilities.

"While there has been considerable talk about the match between myself and Longboat, there is nothing definite as yet. I have wired my terms to meet Longboat in Madison Square Garden, but have heard nothing from it. I will agree to meet the Indian, winner take 60 and loser 40 per cent., which I think is a fair proposition, or will race him for $500 and 30 per cent."

SAYS HARVARD IS STRONGER THAN YALE

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 10.—When asked to give his expert opinion of Yale and Harvard's comparative strength, Captain Mayhew, of Brown, said:

"Harvard is stronger than Yale if the latter played her full game Saturday. Individually the Yale backs are superior to Harvard's, but Yale's backs are left pretty much to shift for themselves. Harvard has five or six men that run with and help the backs. Yale's ends had too much on hand in trying to attend to Dennie and Rognier to do much else. Dennie never played so well before. We were prepared for Yale's ends and handled them, as we had an extra man to help each end on receiving punts. As for the charge of holding on the last play I did not see it and did not think there was any."

QUILL IN BEST SHAPE FOR LOUGHREY

With both boys in the pink of condition and ready to duplicate that stirring encounter they had two weeks ago, Tommy Quill, the Brocktonite, and Young Loughrey, the peerless Quaker slugger, are ready to jump into the arena at the Armory A. A. to-night to settle that draw battle they had on the former occasion.

Loughrey is the first boy who has yet been seen at the big club who has carried the game to Quill and got away with it. If he can repeat to-night then he will surely be considered Quill's master and Tommy will have to postpone his ambitious endeavor to become the welterweight champion.

But the members expect to see Quill show such aggressive tactics that the Quaker's great stamina will crumble before the end of the twelve rounds, even if it failed to do so in the other bout.

What cleverness was displayed in the last match was brought out by Quill, and he has had the proper kind of training to counteract the speed Loughrey shows and should be able to reach the visitor more effectively if he follows out his instructions, which he failed to do in the last meeting.

The semi-final bout between Jerry Gaines, the idol of the market men, and Bill McKinnon, the pride of Roxbury, should be a ripping contest, both depending on the weight of his punch to turn the tide of victory.

Gaines will come in for a big reception, as he was always popular, and if he can stop McKinnon's winning career he will be a great card.

The two fast steppers, Eddie Carr and Johnny Lynch, will start the music, and there are none better locally at their weight.

SAM FITZ SAYS BURNS WON'T LAST 15 ROUNDS

BY TAD.

Sam Fitzpatrick, manager of Jack Johnson, dropped us a line from Colombo, Ceylon, where they stopped a few hours on their way to the battleground in Australia.

They had been on the water three weeks when he wrote and expected to arrive in another, which would give Johnson a month on land to spend in training.

Sam states that the battle is to be a finish with four-ounce gloves. He understood this when he left London, and if anything new has turned up since the genial manager is not aware of it.

His letter follows:

Colombo, Ceylon, Oct. 11, 1908.

Dear Tad: If all goes well we expect to land in Australia about the 28th of this month; then the exact date of the Johnson-Burns fight will be decided. I asked for one month to train in, and that was practically agreed upon before we left. This will bring the fight into the last week of November, or the first of December.

This is our third week out and the weather has been grand except for a few hot days we had passing through the Red Sea. Jack punches the bag ten or twelve rounds a day and then takes on a few firemen and sailors to pass the time away. He is beginning to get very set and with a month on land to trim up on, he will be able to put up the battle of his life, that is, if Burns is capable of extending him. The three months work Johnson has put in around the music halls of London, boxing about fifty rounds a week, has worked wonders with him and to-day the big fellow is faster and stronger than he ever was.

If Burns pulls the trick on him he is the greatest fighter we have seen in the past twenty years, and I have watched them all. Jack says if he is defeated that he will be the first to take his hat off to him. If Jack is right and Burns stays over fifteen rounds, I will never try to pick another fight as long as I live. Burns hasn't met a real fighter in two years, and I feel that he will be as easy in Jack's hands as Squires was in his.

The men are to fight to a finish with four-ounce gloves and the battleground will be at a place called Rushcutter's Bay, which is about as far from Sydney as the Brooklyn Bridge is from Coney Island. I hope Burns is not on his way to Frisco when we get to Sydney. Jack has followed him three-quarters of the way around the world now, and our only hope is that he hasn't taken "run out powders" again.

I won't be able to write again until we reach Sydney, but if you will cable me upon my arrival will send you all the news you want. Kindest regards to our friends there. From the Tar Baby and yours sincerely,

SAM FITZPATRICK.

"Jim Corbett says that Batting Nelson will surely be knocked out if he sticks around in the game. No man ever lived who couldn't be put away, says Jim, and Nelson will be the same as Sharkey. For Sharkey was the pugilistic Gibraltar, but after Jeff beat him up he was knocked out a couple of times."

Jimmy Johnson of the Fairmount Club has simply gone daffy over Jim Driscoll, the English champion. Jimmy is so sure that Jim will knock Matty Baldwin when they meet that he's taking five against ten every time he sees it offered.

Leach Cross writes from Pawling, New York, saying that he's dead anxious to get on with some one for over six rounds. He wants to start on a ten or twelve-round show and then go after the twenty-five-round ones. With a good offer the East Side skyrocket says he'd got to the coast right away. He will also take on Nelson if the Dane will give him a chance. Step up, boys! Who else wants a chance?

Bill Papke arrived in Frisco weighing 160 pounds with his clothes on. Stanley Ketchell blew in tipping the beam at 180. They are to fight at 158 pounds the latter part of this month. Going up for one and the reverse for the other.

MANAGER HATHAWAY BUSY SHOWING NEW WHITE CAR

By J. C. KERRISON.

The new White car which reached Boston Saturday last is proving decidedly popular and Manager J. S. Hathaway finds his forces exceedingly busy in demonstrating and showing the same.

This new product of the White Company can be described most appropriately as a smaller edition of the new Model M of 40 horsepower rather than a successor of any previous model. It is rated at 20 steam horsepower, and sells for $2,000 f. o. b. from Cleveland, equipped with oil lamps, horn and tool kit.

The wheel base of the 20 horsepower, which is known as Model O, is 104 inches, and the tires both front and rear are 32x3½ inches. The car is regularly fitted with a straight line five passenger body. The engine, except as regards size, is identical with that in the Model M. The high pressure cylinder is of a 2½-inch bore, the low pressure cylinder is 4¼-inch bore; the stroke is 3 inches. The frame is of heat-treated pressed steel. The front axle is a one-piece forging of one-beam cross section. The front springs are 45 inches long and 1¾ inches wide. Both the foot brake and the hand-brake act on drums on the rear wheels, the former being of the expanding type, and the latter the contracting type. As in the larger model the water tank is placed under the foot boards and the fuel tank is in the rear.

Bridgeport, Ct., took a day off yesterday, just to give honor to the Locomobile, and George Robertson, who won the Vanderbilt. This being the first international won by an American car the city considered it her bounden duty to show its appreciation of the same. Hence it played host to the Locomobile outfit yesterday. In the afternoon there was a motor parade in which the Vanderbilt victors were decidely conspicious, and in which was seen almost every motor vehicle in that city. Even the Loco plant was shut down in order that those who had assisted, in no matter how small a detail, to the construction of the victorious car should have ample opportunity to participate in the festivities and the Loco agents from all over the country were present. A dinner was held last evening at which Governor Goodruff of Connecticut was presiding genius and he extolled the virtue of the car and driver as did likewise Mayor Lee of Bridgeport and President S. T. Davies, and Vice President A. L. Riker of the Loco Co.

A most significant note in the changing day is the sound of the automobile horn. The automobile industry, after a growth of unparalleled rapidity, has been among the first to recover from recent financial conditions. This can be explained by the popular economic demand for self-propelled machines, and the ability shown by the leading manufacturers in the tight money market.

The legitimate automobile manufacture is typified in an essentially modern man; progressive, or he would not be in the business; alert and full of nervous energy, if he shall succeed and survive. As in the mechanical development of their automobiles, in all their complexity and unknown quantities and ramified interests and industries, the Association of Licensed Automobile Manufacturers has done in several lines work which is substantially of educational character.

Former achievements of the Olds Motor Works have been surpassed in the 1909 models. Agents throughout the country who have been in receipt of these models have written enthusiastically to the Olds Motor Works at Lansing in every instance, and the officials of the company have come to the opinion that during the coming year the Olds will make the greatest hit of its long career.

No cars ever placed out by this company have ever received as universal commendation. The popularity of the latest model of the Olds has been demonstrated by the demand that orders given previously be increased immediately, and also by demands for immediate shipment to fill orders taken immediately upon the arrival of the latest model.

BOXING

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10.—George Cole of Mechanicsville, N. Y., and Philadelphia Jack O'Brien faced each other at the West End Club. Cole stayed the limit of six rounds, but received an awful beating. He was knocked down in the first round and was nearly out when the final bell sounded.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 10.—Morris Harris, the colored heavyweight of New York, fought six hot rounds with Tony Ross, the Italian heavyweight. In the fifth and sixth rounds Ross appeared to have the colored giant going, but was not clever enough to put him out.

PORTLAND, Nov. 10.—On account of the small attendance, Bill McKinnon of Roxbury refused to go on with Jim Flynn at the Pastime Club, and his place was taken by Tom Sawyer of this city. The two men gave a good exhibition.

FOOTBALL

ANDOVER, Nov. 10.—Fred R. Large, '10, centre on this year's football team at Phillips Andover Academy, has been elected captain of next year's eleven.

PRINCETON, Nov. 10.—Head Coach Roper was so disgusted with the lack of aggressiveness exhibited by McCrohan, the brawny fullback, that he dismissed him from the squad and the training table for the rest of the season. The coaches say that McCrohan has played for the last time with the Princeton team.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 10.—These are lively days at Yale Field. A hurry call has been sent to a dozen old players to come at once to coach the Elis. In the shift as a result of the Brown game, Coy and Brides, veteran backs, were moved into the line, both regular tackles retired, and Johnson put at quarterback in place of Murphy, Tony Haines given a regular position at end and Field put in at fullback, with Fred Daly at halfback. The only men who were not shifted were the guards, Andrus and Goebel; the centre, Biddle, and Philbin, the left halfback.

GEORGE'S MID-SEASON SALE THE FIRST IN 29 YEARS.

Dispensing with all profits is a bad move in business. But it is better than breaking contract with the tailors and losing their friendship. Our agreement with the tailors compels us to take all their uncalled-for garments and to pay cash on delivery. September and October were disastrous months for the tailors. At the close of the Summer many garments were ordered, the temperature was warm, and not being needed they were refused or uncalled for. This was bad for the tailors, but it is even worse for us. Overloaded, and garments piling in daily, and also in NEED OF READY MONEY, we sacrifice all profits and offer the greatest values in our business career of 29 years. For instance, Sack suit, the dark shade known as wood brown; coat snappy 3-button, dip front effect; custom made by Fenner of Broadway, N. Y., for $35; former price $15, present price $12. Medium weight overcoats, Oxford gray, tailored in the snappy broad shoulder style for $45 by Needham, one of Buffalo's best tailors; former price $18, present price $15. Over 3,500 other garments to select from. GEORGE'S TAILOR PARLORS, 14 Summer st., near Washington; open Saturday night. If thinking of an auto coat or a fur or fur-lined coat for street wear we can save you one-half the prices asked by furriers and others.

Cossacks Got Pouren's Child

But They Will Not Get Pouren Himself. That Disgrace Won't Be Put on This Country

Copyright, 1908, by American-Journal-Examiner

We repeat that Pouren, the political refugee from Russia, will not be sent back by our Government—not even to please the Czar, not even to please Mr. Root of the Trusts.

The testimony before the Duma showed that the eight-year-old daughter of this man Pouren was beaten by the Cossacks to make her confess the whereabouts of her father.

If they should catch that child again, and beat her again, she would say to them, "My father is in America, and that country won't send him back to you." And she would be telling the truth. Her father will not be sent back.

Regardless of Mr. Root, regardless of Mr. Coudert, regardless of any convenient judge that may be owned by the trusts as Root is owned by the trusts, POUREN WON'T GO BACK TO RUSSIA.

Judge Holt was compelled to issue the warrant for his rearrest. The trickiness of Elihu Root fixed matters so that Judge Holt had no option whatever. But between issuing a warrant and sending back to Russia there is a big margin.

Before that man goes back, Mr. Roosevelt himself must and will insist upon knowing the facts.

He is hereby referred to a pamphlet headed "United States of America, Southern District of New York. In the Matter of the Application of N. de Lodigensky, Imperial Russian Consul-General, for the Extradition of Jan Janoff Pouren to Russia."

On page 72 of that document Mr. Roosevelt will find a reproduction of a document issued by the Russian Government under the heading "List of the fugitive persons, accused of the REVOLUTIONARY movement, who are to be searched for." This document contains exactly the accusations that are made against Pouren.

Pouren has done exactly what the American patriots of 1776 did to the English. He has tried his best to free his brothers in Russia from the tyranny of the Czar.

We haven't the slightest authority to speak for Mr. Roosevelt. Mr. Roosevelt would probably shiver with indignation at the mere thought.

But we know perfectly well that Roosevelt is no fox like Root, no fool, no tool of the trusts that have succeeded in palming Root off on him. And Roosevelt KNOWS what Russia is and what she does. He won't allow Pouren to go back without a hearing. AND A HEARING WILL MEAN THAT POUREN WILL STAY HERE.

Meanwhile, readers, observe the character of Mr. Root, the Tweed lawyer, the trust jackal, the misrepresentative of America in the highest appointive office, and hope for the day when it will be impossible for such a creature to be conspicuous in our government.

As for Pouren—don't worry.

Cruel Frightening of Children

Only a Brute Strikes a Child

Copyright, 1908, by American-Journal-Examiner

The most acute suffering is that produced by FEAR, and those who suffer most acutely from fear are YOUNG CHILDREN.

Who does not remember the intense agony in youth based upon the superstitious teachings of some foolish older person?

And how many children are made miserable through the hideous fear that comes from threats and from punishment postponed?

If a man should be whipped incessantly for three or four hours he would think his tormentor a monster of brutality.

Yet you say to a child:

"I will whip you for that to-mor row."

You sentence that child to hours of the most acute mental suffering, and if the child be nervous and unusually sensitive, you may permanently injure its health.

Here is a scene unfortunately not rare in this country:

A thin, nervous little boy, perhaps ten years old, was walking along a suburban street. Suddenly, on turning a corner, he was confronted by a man, apparently his father.

The child stood trembling. The man, in a voice of cold, concentrated anger, said:

"Didn't I tell you to come early? You go to the house and WAIT THERE TILL I COME BACK AND FIX YOU."

The man walked on, to get the drink of beer or whiskey that should add to his natural cruelty, and the poor child, without a word, started for home to await the coming punishment.

No more cruel treatment was ever endured by any human being than the punishment inflicted by that thoughtless man on the nervous, helpless child placed in his power.

Later, of course, there followed the punishment; a huge, powerful man striking repeatedly the delicate body of the child, emphasizing the brutality of his blows with more brutal words, and feeling when it was over that he had gloriously done his duty as a typical American father.

Of course, the actual brutal beating was only a small part of the child's ordeal.

The most horrible part was the waiting for the punishment. No man in the death cell ever suffered more than thousands of children suffer every day waiting for the brutality which is to exemplify our savage notions concerning the education of children.

If such a monstrous parody on a father should be met in some lonely wood by a huge gorilla and treated as that father treats his own son, he would complain bitterly of the gorilla's ferocity. Yet it would not equal in any way his own brutal and less excusable cruelty.

If a parent says that he cannot bring up his children and control them without beating them, you may say to that parent:

You never struck a child in your life except when you were angry, and you would not have dared to strike it if it had been of your own size.

Children born of decent parents can be brought up, and ARE brought up, without beatings, and if yours are a different kind of children it is a reflection on YOU, and on your whole brood and family.

The poor, ignorant hen can teach its young ones to scratch and hunt worms, and acquire whatever education they need, without hurting them, and a human being should be able to do for his own as much as a hen can do.

Who Is a Christian?

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1908, by American-Journal-Examiner

WHO is a Christian in this Christian land
Of many churches and of lofty spires?
Not he who sits in soft, upholstered pews
Bought by the profits of unholy greed,
And looks devotion while he thinks of gain.
Not he who sends petitions from the lips
That lie to-morrow in the street and mart
Not he who fattens on another's toil,
And flings his unearned riches to the poor,
Or aids the heathen with a lessened wage,
And builds cathedrals with an increased rent.

Christ, with Thy great, sweet simple creed of Love,
How must Thou weary of Earth's "Christian" clans,
Who preach salvation through Thy saving blood
While planning slaughter of their fellow men.

Who is a Christian? It is one whose life
Is built on love, on kindness and on faith;
Who holds his brother as his other self;
Who toils for justice, equity and Peace,
And hides no aim or purpose in his heart
That will not chord with universal good.

Though he be pagan, heretic or Jew,
That man is Christian and beloved of Christ.

Man Is Judged by What He Is

Character the Soul's One Passport in Future Stages of Existence, Not Wealth or Toil

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

Copyright, 1908, by American-Journal-Examiner

THERE are all kinds of people in the world, and to class all the people of wealth in one category and all laboring people in another is unreasonable and absurd.

To possess wealth does not necessarily indicate cruelty, unkindness or rascality; and to be a laboring man does not always indicate worth, virtue or honesty.

We cannot judge a man by what he has or what he has not! We must judge him wholly by what he is.

The careful student of human nature must observe that, as a rule, inherited wealth stunts a man's best development.

Only once in a thousand cases is the man so born and reared notable among men for his broad character and superior achievements, while the majority of unusual men and women of all ages—unusual for nobility of character and unselfishness of life—have been those who have risen by their own efforts, and who, through the force of necessity, have been compelled to work.

Ah, wealth is not always the boon it appears,
And poverty lights not such ruinous fires
As gratified appetites, tastes and desires.
Fate curses, when, letting us do as we please,
It stunts a man's soul to be cradled in ease.

Men Stunt Their Souls

The man who is born to wealth and uses it to envelop himself from contact with any class save his own is doing for his spiritual development just what the Chinese woman does for her feet when she binds them into tiny shoes and prevents their growth. No matter how much such a man gives to charity and education, he is stunting his own soul.

Knowledge of our fellow men and understanding of their trials and needs, comprehension of their sorrows and joys, alone can teach us that sympathy which is a part of spiritual wealth.

The wealth which hedges itself from contact with humanity is to be pitied, not envied, because of its certain soul pauperism.

My religion teaches me that there is a kingdom of the spirit where we shall all sojourn after we leave this particular body.

It is not so unlike this world as the old idea of heaven taught, and it is but one of many mansions in My Father's House. Money holds no place in this kingdom of the spirit. Nothing is of value there but character development.

Love, sympathy, charity of judgment, kindness, patience, understanding of human nature, aspirations for usefulness, desire for growth, and knowledge of the universal life principle through all nature—these are the things which will be valued in the kingdom of the spirit.

In this earth world you may secure a first-class stateroom or parlor suite and every refined luxury by sending a telegram or dispatching your valet. But in that land you will have to apply in person for your accommodations, and you will have to take the position you have made for yourself while here.

Wealth will not aid you to the enjoyment of the land where money is not known, and poverty will be no passport to that country, unless you have used the benefits of opulence and the advantages of poverty wisely.

The development of the divine man is free to both the classes. If you are rich in this world's goods and have built a wall about your soul, or if you are poor and have filled your heart full of hatred toward every man of wealth, you are on the same road to spiritual mendicancy.

A man's own thought is a man's own fate.

Personally, I feel a greater pity for the conventionally reared being of inherited wealth than I feel for the most burdened toiler in the ranks of labor, just as I pity the high-born Chinese girl compelled by tradition to toddle through life with crippled feet.

I have known people of wealth who were God's own messengers, and I have encountered many men and women of wealth whose minds were hopelessly crippled by their narrow, limited views on all subjects, by their mechanical religious forms, their worldly gold basis idea of love and marriage, their slavery to fashion, and their utter ignorance of the great emotions, the great sorrows, the great struggles of the vast world outside their own little world of fashion.

Of Eternal Importance

Believing as I do that our thoughts in this life fashion our places in the next stage of existence, and knowing how magnificent is God's universe, I can feel only infinite pity for these usually envied people who are wasting the opportunity to grow through knowledge of humanity, and through sympathy and understanding.

Hundreds of working girls to-day, who are toiling to support aging parents, or to aid younger children, are incomparably superior to many of the aristocrats of earth because they are developing character—which is the only thing in this life that counts in the great scheme.

But the working girl and man who are filled with envy and hatred toward the rich are not to be admired or respected merely because they labor.

If you work only because you must, and hate your work, and hate every man who has wealth and leisure, do not imagine your labor makes you worthier than his wealth in the eyes of the Creator, for it does not.

Whether you are poor or rich is of small consideration in the long run, but what you are in character and principle is of eternal importance.

A Literary Miracle

By James J. Montague

WHEN the Saxon and Celt handled wallop and belt
And England was both wild and woolly,
Their favorite word for whatever occurred
That pleased them a trifle was "bully."
Their use of the term was quite frequent and steady,
Although it had not been invented by Teddy.

WHEN old William the First, being sorely athirst,
By a foresighted lord was invited
To imbibe a small drink, he replied with a wink
And a chuckle of pleasure, "D-e-e-lighted."
Which seems, don't you think, just a trifle absurd,
For Roosevelt had not yet invented the word.

WHEN Chaucer shot off pyrotechnics of speech
His wondering readers to dazzle,
He was wont to observe, "Gode Sir Guy had ye nerve,
But ye Kinge had him lykked to a frazzle."
Which seems queer, when there's never the shade of a doubt
That Roosevelt had never yet thought the word out.

AND Cromwell, when harried by persons at court—
His eager, outspoken detractors—
Would grumble, "Now, what do I care for that lot
Of envious, rich malefactors!"
Yet Roosevelt, 'way back in those strenuous days
Had given no thought to composing the phrase.

ONE wonders how Shakespeare and Byron and Keats
Held pens both expressive and ready
When half of the speech within present day reach
Had not been invented by Teddy.
'Twould seem that long years before Roosevelt had coined them
They guessed at his words through the years and purloined them.
